With a light vote cast in the city on Tuesday, September 14, results in a number of races for nomination were close, particularly in the Republican race for school board. From the returns of all the 42 precincts in the city it appears that barely more than 11,500 voted on both Democratic and Republican tickets out of a registration of nearly 22,000.

In the Democratic race for nomination to council the battle was for second place, the first place winner, Frank Ross, being well out in front due to a heavy South Side vote. Mr. Ross polled 1,831 votes and his running mate, Ray Cutler, polled 1,406.

Other Democratic candidates finished as follows: L. Fred Vaughn, 1,359; Arthur Johnston, 907; John Gross, Jr., 758.

On the Republican side the situation was the same, Joseph D. Alexander being in front all the

Now that the primary campaign is over and the candidates know just how many friends they have, there will no doubt be some surprises in the ranks. There are a few voters who promise candidates outright, but nearly all have the happy faculty of giving the candidate the impresssion that he stands 100 per cent in their affections. But the truth is made known by the ballots.

State Takes Money Man Found In Bed

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Adam Czakowski, 70, today lost the tidy fortune he found in an old brass bed.

The state's attorney's office confiscated the $4,500 in coins, bonds and saving certificates he found in the hollow legs of an old bedstead he was knocking apart for junk.

The bonds were traced to Apolinary Dembinski, who died in a basement flat several months ago and a search was started for his widow, from whom he separated several years before his death.

Prepare To Start Warship Patrol

French And British Fleets Ready To Conform To Nyon Agreement

SEVENTY SHIPS ALREADY ON SCENE

LONDON, Sept. 15—Commanders-in-chief of the French and British fleets in the Mediterranean have ordered all British and French warships in that sea to conform to terms of the "Nyon Arrangement" to halt piracy, International News Service learned today.

Units of the two fleets are thus under instructions to sink any 'phantom submarines" caught attacking neutral merchant ships of any nationality—except Spanish—on the high seas.

Officials estimated approximately 70 British and French warships are now in the Mediterranean.

Under terms of the Nyon agreement, if an American or other foreign ship, excluding Spanish vessels, should be attacked by a "pirate" submersible, British and French warships in the vicinity, including battle ships and cruisers if they are nearer to the scene than destroyers, would immediately go to the attacked ship's assistance.

The actual Anglo-French destroyer patrol scheme is not likely to come into full force for several days, a high admiralty authority informed International News Service.

He explained a tremendous amount of detailed preparation is involved, necessitating lengthy conversations among naval chiefs, especially the French and British, before this plan can go into full operation.

Walter V. Tyler Taken By Death

Former Mayor And Councilman Passes Away At Home Today

BORN IN NEW CASTLE; SPANISH WAR VET

WALTER V. TYLER

Following an illness which had its inception during his service in the Spanish-American war and had plagued him intermittently since, Walter V. Tyler, 60, died at his home at 744 Butler avenue at 10:15 A. M. His recent attack of illness was of a week's duration.

Mr. Tyler had been prominent in New Castle affairs for nearly thirty years. He was born in New Castle, November 1, 1876, the son of Charles N. and Annie L. Tyler and he lived in New Castle all his life save for the time he spent in the American army during the Spanish-American war.

Elected Mayor

In 1911 when he was employed on the Pennsylvania Railroad he headed the ticket of Socialist candidates in the city and was elected mayor. By a coincidence, his opponent on the Republican ticket, the late Attorney Walter S. Reynolds who was also in the Spanish-American War passed away recently.

As mayor of the city Mr. Tyler's regime was not lacking in interest. Although many differed with him in his political philosophy none could question his sterling honesty and among his warmest personal friends were men who opposed him in politics. Some years after leaving the mayor's office he returned to the Republican party and was elected to city council. Following that he worked at his trade of a plasterer.

In 1907 he married Mattie Barber who survives him. Also surviving him are a son Charles B. Tyler of New Castle, a daughter Mrs. J. B. McCoy, of Pekin, Ill., two grandchildren, a sister Mrs. Charles J. Baker of New Castle and two brothers, Jesse B. Tyler of Jamestown, Pa., and Theodore Tyler of Warren, O.

Funeral services will take place at the residence Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Britain May Withdraw Ambassador To Japan

By KINGSBURY SMITH

(Copyright, 1937)

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Britain's new ambassador to Japan, Robert Leslie Craigie, may be withdrawn temporarily from his post if the British government is unable to reach a satisfactory settlement with Tokyo over the wounding of Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen, British envoy to China.

This was revealed to International News Service today by a high government source who indicated the cabinet is far from satisfied with Japan's attempt to side-step responsibility for the incident.

Sir Hughe was wounded several weeks ago while he was motoring from Nanking to Shanghai on a peace mission. The British government claimed his car had been attacked by two Japanese planes and that he was hit by a machine gun bullet fired by the attackers.

The Japanese government has repeatedly insisted their investigations have failed to prove Japanese planes were responsible for the injury to Sir Hughe, who is now recovering in a Shanghai hospital.

Although the British are anxious to avoid a complete diplomatic break with Tokyo, the government is not prepared to let Japan "get away" with shooting a British diplomat.

President Says U. S. Determined To Avoid Foreign Entanglement

President Outlaws Eastern Waters Of Sino-Jap War To American Shipping

U. S. OWNED SHIPS CAN'T HAUL ARMS

Most Significant Move In International Policy Since "Peace At Any Price"

By ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—President Roosevelt today served notice on world powers the United States is determined to avoid entanglement in foreign wars at any cost, short of actual attack on American territory.

In one of the most significant moves in international policy since the "peace at any price" enunciation of the late Woodrow Wilson, Mr. Roosevelt barred American merchant shipping from waters adjacent to the Sino-Japanese undeclared war.

Substitute For Neutrality Act.

The action, a substitute for invocation of the neutrality act against Japan and China, was aimed at guaranteeing against a possible "incident" arising from the molestation of American shipping in Japan's blockade of the China coast, and yet avoiding antagonizing either of the oriental powers by bringing the undeclared war into the open.

The president outlawed far eastern waters to American shipping by:

1. Forbidding any vessels owned by the United States to transport arms, ammunition or implements of war to China or Japan.

2. Warning all other shipping flying the American flag that if they enter those waters with war supplies

Fine Response From Primary Election Boards

Excellent Co-operation Is Given The News On Tuesday Night

There may be no fragrance to verbal bouquets but at least they last longer than the ones from the florist. This article is a bouquet to the election boards of the city and county for their fine spirit of cooperation on Tuesday night following the closing of the polls.

Through their prompt telephoning returns to The News this paper was enabled to give returns to the host of citizens who called or were in Mercer street watching the screen.

County officials also come in for their share. Under the new election code election boards must return their reports to the office of the registration commission immediately after they are done. In order to get this done Thomas C. Edmunds, chief clerk of the registration commission, had his office open all night as did the county commissioners, county treasurer and county controller.

In future elections the boards will also be instructed to telephone their returns to the registration office. Mr. Edmunds stated today, which will further expedite the announcing of returns to the public.

Mayor Scully Is Nominated

Pittsburgh Mayor Apparently Wins 3-1 Victory In Mayoralty Battle

WADDELL WINNER IN G. O. P. PRIMARY

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 15.—Organization candidates of both the Democratic and Republican parties throughout the city and county swept to victory today in the primary elections with resounding majorities.

Mayor Cornelius D. Scully apparently scored a 3 to 1 victory in the Democratic primary over his nearest opponent, council president P. J. McArdle, while Robert N. Waddell defeated former mayor William A. Magee for the Republican mayoralty nomination almost 2½ to 1. Former mayor William McNair, colorful figure in Pittsburgh politics, was apparently giving McArdle a close race for second place in the Democratic primary.

The resounding Scully victory was carried on through the Democratic council slate, elsewhere in the county the Democratic organization also had its own way. The slated candidates for sheriff, coroner and jury commissioner were named with ease.

The results were considered a triumph for state chairman David L. Lawrence whose leadership would have been seriously shaken had the insurgent movement gained any ground in Allegheny county.

Even more so was the Republican choice for mayor a victory for county chairman Frank J. Harris, whose leadership was brought to a test in the election. His victory was brought about by a coalition of old-line organization groups and independents, along with young Republicans.

Safety patrols are now being organized in the different schools. The purpose is to properly educate children in crossing streets. Bulletins concerning this have been sent to every principal. The regulations have been approved by the State Department of Instruction and the local police department. Dr. Green also mentioned that fire patrols are being instituted in each building to assist in the operation of fire drills.

Spanish Rebels Claim Success

Killing Of 300 Loyalist Troops On Aragon Front Is Reported

LOYALISTS MAKE COUNTER ATTACK

(International News Service)

ST. JEAN DE LUZ, France, Sept. 15.—Widespread Rebel successes, including the killing of 300 Loyalist troops on the Aragon front, were claimed today in an insurgent communique from Salamanca.

The Rebel announcement said:

"Despite poor weather the Asturian Nationalist advance continued. The heights west of Penavilla were captured following occupation of Ceuto mountain.

"On the Leon front the Insurgents occupied the Santa Lucio mines and the villages of Cervera and Villa Del Puerto, as well as three ridges of Corbeta mountain.

"Three hundred government troops were surrounded and slain during a counter-attack on the Valdescalera sector of the Aragon front."

From Madrid came reports that the Rebels succeeded in breaking through the Mabuco road on the Assturian front southwest of Llanes, but that Loyalist troops later counter-attacked and regained their earlier losses.

The government admitted the Rebels captured Ceuto mountain on the Leon front and were continuing their drive toward Arango.

Insurgent radio stations broadcast reports that the Loyalist leader at Gijon, last remaining major government stronghold on the Bay of Biscay, had broken off relations with the Valencia government, declaring the Loyalist zone in the Asthrias region an "independent canton."

It was rumored several chiefs of the regular army have been placed on trial, including the chief of staff of the Basque army.

The fighting now is over and the candidates are in that is the ones who finished first, you'll know them by the grin. The others have a saddened face and murder in their heart, they figure voters let them down and didn't do their part. But that's the way elections go, somebody has to win and others have to lose it seems, they just can't all go in. But win or lose the fight is done, that is the primary, but soon the battle starts afresh with warm intensity. But for a week or maybe two things will be more sedate and we can get a spot of sleep, the weather's sixty eight.

Claim Kidnaped Woman Is Dead

Letters Declare Mrs. Parsons Died

Key Figure In New York Mystery Case That Developed In June

REPORT PNEUMONIA CAUSE OF DEATH

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—Mrs. Alice McDonnell Parsons, key figure in the Long Island kidnaping mystery of last June, is dead, according to an exclusive Journal-American story Tuesday afternoon.

At the time of Mrs. Parson's disappearance, sole clue to her whereabouts was a ransom note found in her automobile, parked outside her Stony Brook home, demanding $40,000 for her release.

The Journal-American said:

Department of justice agents are in contact with her kidnapers, who have admitted she died on July 9, one month after she disappeared from her Stony Brook home.

Letters Are Sent

A series of letters, informing the agents of these facts, and containing a brooch known to have been worn by the missing heiress at the time of her disappearance, have been received.

Both the federal operatives and the woman's husband, William H. Parsons, are fully convinced of the authenticity of the communications, and for several months they have constituted the principal source of material for investigation.

These, and other sensational facts in the puzzling case, were learned exclusively by the N. Y. Journal-American, and have received undeniable confirmation from a source close to every detail of the development.

According to the letters, which are filled with detail which could have been known only to persons familiar with the actual kidnaping Mrs. Parsons was seized near her home and borne to a hideout on Long Island not far from her estate.

She died, according to one of the communications, of pneumonia, and her body "has been completely disposed of."

Department of Justice agents, who have been working on the case under the direction of Inspector Earl Connolly, have been receiving the letters since shortly after the woman's disappearance.

PRESIDENT SAYS U. S. TO AVOID ENTANGLEMENT

the United States will not be responsible for anything that happens to them.

The presidential edict was the most drastic step in foreign relations since the Warld war.

It virtually posted Japan and China that they can seize or sink a vessel flying an American flag, carrying a cargo of war supplies to either of the far eastern belligerents, without fear of redress from the United States.

The step was determined upon in one of the most crucial cabinet sessions in years. President Roosevelt returned to the White House yesterday and immediately summoned Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Chairman Joseph Kennedy of the maritime commission and his far eastern advisers into conference. A special cabinet meeting followed.

The president then ordered:

"Merchant vessels owned by the government of the United States will not hereafter, until further notice, be permitted to transport to China or Japan any of the arms, ammunition or implements of war which were listed in the president's proclamation of May 1, 1937.

"Any other merchant vessels, flying the American flag, which attempt to transport any of the listed articles to China or Japan will, until further notice, do so at their own risk.

"The question of applying the neutrality act remains in status quo, the government policy remaining on a 24-hour basis."

Although a major war has raged between Japan and China for two months, President Roosevelt has been loath to invoke the neutrality act against the two powers for several reasons. Neither China nor Japan have severed diplomatic relations or declared war. Presidential action on the neutrality act would put the United States in the position of arbitrarily declaring that a "state of war" exists between the two powers.

City Controller

For city controller on the Democratic ticket, J. Garfield Davis won the nomination with a vote of 2,045. His competitor, Ralph Audino, polled 1,519 votes.

The result in the Republican party was a victory for Sidney L. Lockley. A dark horse throughout the race, he came through to win by a vote of 3,091 as against 2,809 for William J. Connery and 2,189 for C. L. McMillen.

The race for school board was unusually close in the Republican primary. In the Democratic primary there were but two candidates with three places to fill. The two are Dick Shellogg and Raymond Nolte. Because they had no competition no tabulation was kept. There will be another Democratic nominee through someone's name being written in, but this will take the official count.

In the Republican primary, two of the present incumbents, Daniel B. Woolcock and A. C. Hyde, were successful and the third incumbent, J. Herbert McIlvenny, was defeated. His place was taken by Dr. Arthur B. Foster. Woolcock was high with 4,473 votes, Hyde was second with 4,386, and Foster was close with 4,346. Robert Preston was just outside the charmed circle with 4,302. J. Herbert McIlvenny polled 3,661 votes.

County-Wide

The complete results of the county-wide fights are found in other columns, but their results in the city are shown here. Attorney John S. Powers carried the city for the Democratic nomination for judge with a vote of 1,741. Attorney Charles Matthews, Jr., was second with 1,144 votes and Attorney Raymond Humphrey of Ellwood City, was third with 437 votes.

In the Republican primary, Attorney Thomas D. Dickey carried the city easily with a vote of 4,942. Attorney Charles Matthews, Jr., was second with 2,116, and Attorney John S. Powers was third with 1,754.

Joseph F. Travers carried the city for the Democratic nomination for sheriff with 1,696 votes, Ralph Ramsey was second with 1,141, John Velker was third with 1,696, and James J. Horean fourth with 195.

Mrs. McConnell's grandfather, Knight, operated a grist mill a few hundred yards below McConnell's Mills.

Both couple had been active members of the Portersville Presbyterian church. Mrs. McConnell was a former member, too, of the Almira Home Board.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. James McClymonds of Butler; a brother, William R. Stewart of Rose Point, and the following nieces and nephews, Mrs. Floy Whitten, Butler; Mrs. Howard Newton, Youngstown, O.; Clarence Stewart, of Saxonburg; Lawrence, Bertha and John Stewart and Frank McClymonds, of Portersville, and Mr. Hartman, New Castle.

JONAS KAUFMAN DIES TUESDAY EVE

3 years, the family settling in Baltimore. Immediately following his marrriage to Sarah Seniger, he removed to New Castle, when quite a young man, where he opened a department store.

Some years later, he founded the Standard Wire Company, and was president of that concern. He was also founder of one of the early building and loan companies here, and the Royal Arcanum.

He was the oldest and one of the most active members of New Castle Lodge No. 69, B. P. O. E. and the oldest member of Temple Israel.

Mr. Kaufman has been retired from business life for some years, but spent considerable time with his old associates and was interested in the affairs of the city up until he was stricken so quickly.

Ochs of New York City, Mrs. J. L. Holsinger and Mrs. M. J. DICKEY POLLS LARGE VOTE IN G. O. P. CONTEST with a vote of 6,563. Earl R. Wimer was second with 4,566 votes, and Andrew M. Dodds third with 4,434 votes.

The election of a district attorney was settled in the primary, Attorney John G. Lamoree winning both the Republican and Democratic nominations. Inasmuch as the law prohibits any independent candidates being filed now, Mr. Lamoree will be elected district attorney in November when he casts his own vote. In the Republican primary he had no opposition and no tabulation was kept. The Democrats filed no candidate, but Attorney Wilbur J. Baer conducted a sticker campaign, and Democratic friends of Mr. Lamoree did the same thing. In 96 out of 100 precincts in the county Lamoree got 942 votes and Mr. Baer 732 votes.

For jury commissioners the two incumbents, Democrat B. Frank Thorne and Republican George J. Forrest, won the nominations, and as there is one to elect from each party in November, both of them are assured of election. Thorne had no opposition on the Democratic ticket, and Mr. Forrest defeated Henry M. Allen on the Republican ticket.

Endeavour I broke away from the tow of the chartered power yacht Viva II. Endeavour II is being taken back home in tow of Sopwith's palatial steam yacht Philante.

School work should be easy

School work is always keyed to the dullest minds in the class. It is never keyed to the brightest minds. Therefore, for any child of average intelligence, all school work should be easy. If it is hard—watch out!

Eye strain makes easy-school-work hard. We do not mean severe eye troubles because they reveal themselves promptly and are quickly and easily corrected. It is the slight eye strain that causes the trouble. Children who can see to read, who can see the blackboards, may still be struggling hard and not be aware of it.

If your child falls behind in marks, or hates to study, or takes too much time for homework, have an eyesight examination immediately.

Now at the start of the school year, all children's eyesight should be examined. We never prescribe glasses unless they are needed and unless they will prove definitely helpful.

QUESTION:
Is it worth while for Camel to spend millions more for finer Tobaccos?

ANSWER:
Camels are the largest-selling cigarette in America!

IT is homespun fact that nothing man does to tobacco can take the place of what Nature does. People get more pleasure out of Camels because Camels are made of those finer tobaccos into which Nature put extra goodness and mildness. Camels are a matchless blend of FINER, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic.

PRESSURE AMERICA MUST GUARD AGAINST

TWO examples of outside pressure with the conceivable objective of involving the United States in the Far East's undeclared warfare are at hand.

The Chinese delegation to the League of Nations Assembly, in a press statement, hopes that America, "devoted as she is to the cause of peace and international justice," will associate herself with the league in seeing that Japanese aggression in China is stopped.

Madame Chiang Kai-shek, wife of the Chinese Generalissimo, in a broadcast appeals to the people of this country to help save China from her ruthless foe.

These pleas to the great American nation, at peace with the world, are in a measure natural and understandable. But however the people of this country may sympathize with war-torn China, if they want to keep out of wars which do not primarily concern them they must be on their guard against such appeals for help.

Twenty years ago the United States heeded a call for aid and sent the flower of its youth to France to "make the world safe for democracy". To what end? To the end that it has not yet recovered, never will entirely recover from its loses in men and material resources. America learned her lesson in 1917 and 1918.

With wars flaring up across the globe, this country must be prepared for such pleas for her help and protection as now come out of China. Not in hardness of heart, but in simple self-defense, it is essential that the United States stand aside from wars which do not threaten its own shores. No more punitive expenditures abroad, no material assistance to one belligerent against another belligerent—this policy is mandatory for peace. No foreign pleas, no imploring propaganda, should weaken this resolve.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Possibly there is only one town in the United States that has an exclusive name, and that is the one dear to every child's heart—Santa Claus. But among the other communities strung over the country there are few that do not have one or more name-brothers in other states of the union.

There are, for example, nineteen other Richmonds besides the capital of Virginia. There are 25 Springfields other than the famed city in Massachusetts. There are 35 Franklins, 33 Cliftons, 31 Arlingtons and 31 Hamiltons. Washington is not quite as strong, but designates 18 communities, and there are 13 Middletowns. When you think of Akron, the first thought is Ohio, but there are a dozen other Akrons in the country; also, there are 21 Bridgeports, 16 Albanys, nine Atlantas and six Bostons.

Which, of course, makes it very confusing for the postal and express authorities, but what we would like to know is, is there really a Tailholt somewhere?

THE MORE ABUNDANT LIFE

In many important respects this idealistic objective has been achieved. We may still be some distance removed from the solution of the problem of unemployment; the more equitable distribution of wealth may remain an unattained end, and prosperity, it its larger aspects, may not have turned the corner. But insofar as the fruits of the field, the tree and the vine are concerned we have done well.

It is significant that not so much is heard these days of the trials of the farmers, trials which pressed for remedial action even in the years of affluence. Now, through the friendly cooperation of the fates, farmers are beginning to live and breathe and have their being once again.

The United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics shows in a recent report that the more abundant life is a reality. Grain is doing well in the prairie states. Vegetables are growing on more acres, and in bigger production than in many years. Cabbage, early potatoes, beets, green peas, lettuce, lima beans, eggplant and many other products are establishing new records.

This is good news for producer and consumer, particularly in view of the fact that it holds out the hope that agriculture, long a sick industry, soon may be enabled to stand on its own two feet.

BUDGE, YES, BUT WHERE ARE THE GIRLS!

During the drab decade in which America's hopes for recapturing the Davis Cup were dashed time after time by British and French stars the only bright feature in amateur tennis play from the American standpoint was the performance in the women's division. With the men failing miserably, we still had the two Helens, Mrs. Moody and Miss Jacobs, to rely on for championship honors.

This summer's tournaments have changed that picture entirely. With a one-man Davis Cup team in Don Budge,, America has won back that trophy. Again we are at the top of the heap in the men's championships, mainly because young Budge has done about everything that a tennis player can do. But on the women's courts gloom prevails. Mrs. Moody is still absent. Miss Jacobs' play has fallen off; the outgoing national titleholder, Miss Marble, is erratic. For the first time the women's final had two foreigners on opposite sides of the net, with the American championship going in the end to the graceful senorita from Chile.

With our leading women contenders overshadowed by the foreign stars, and with no player on the men's side within shooting distance of parity with Budge,, prospects for next year's title events look none too bright. On Budge's decision on turning professional hinge the hopes of holding the cup for another year.

Why covet fame? It is merely the privilege of being stared at by strangers, and a monkey in the zoo has that.

Nations trying to preserve peace have tried everything except that ancient policy known as the Golden Rule.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

RESPECTING STUDENT'S RELIGION

Yesterday we considered the hazards to the mental health of the college student whose professor holds up to scorn and ridicule the religion of that child's parents.

Discussing this problem recently with a certain eminent educator, I got from him this reply: "I'm for shocking them severely from the outset and getting out of their heads their foolish notions and superstitions." To which I rejoined, "Are you not thinking wholly in intellectural terms and neglecting the emotional side of the student's life? What will happen to his mental health if you summarily destroy the ties of affection and respect which have bound him to his family? What will happen to his mental health with his religion totally destroyed? And what are you going to give him to put in place of the religion you have taken away from him?"

Of course, most college students will revise some of their earlier religious concepts, and perhaps they should. So also may their parents be revising theirs to some degree. But it is the manner in which this revision occurs, and the emotional experience of the person during the revision that is of chief importance, as I see it.

Now a word concerning the junior and senior high school student and his teacher of science. Some science teachers at this level, just as at the college level, seem to find a peculiar satisfaction in going out of their way to ridicule certain religious beliefs which, to them, appear to conflict with scientific facts, hypotheses andtheories.

Should Be Careful

In our public schools, especially, where religious freedom is supposed to be respected and protected, the teacher should be careful on this matter. Let him present the facts which have clearly been established, being very sure of such establishments. Then, as to theories accepted by the rank and file of scientists, let him present these theories as theories; but let him be careful to state that they are theories and not facts.

It is hardly necessary for him to point out how these theories conflict with any religious beliefs. In case, however, a student should bring up the matter, let this teacher reply that, of course, such is still theory, and that he is not asking the student to accept it as a fact. Let this teacher add, moreover, that if any student is troubled about the matter, he should talk it over with his preacher, priest or rabbi.

Of first importance it is that this teacher shall drop no remark or gesture ridiculing or belittling any specific religious belief. On the other hand, I cannot understand why any parents, regardless of his faith, should object to having his child know what the various most popular scientific theories are. But again, that is not my business.

SNAP IS GONE

Our poor Snap is gone. That lively little fox terrier of ours is dead and we shall see him no more.

Several weeks ago he rashly attacked a porcupine and received hundreds of quills around his jaw, in his mouth, all over his head . . . Old-timers shook their heads and said that a dog with as many quills in him as Snap had could not possibly get well again. But for a time it seemed that they were mistaken.

Snap recovered his spirits for a while. He barked at the cat and chased the chipmunks and when we brought him back to the city he followed the automobiles down the street with gay barks. We knew there were a few quills still in him, but we hoped they would work their way out . . . But lately he had

DEAR MISS MARKEL — Please outline tips to be given at a hotel. To whom should they be given and how large should they be for various kinds of service?

K. F.

Answer — You need not tip the doorman if he does nothing other than assist you from your car or taxi. To the porter or bellboy who takes your luggage to your room give 25 cents for one bag, 35 cents for two, 50 cents for three.

Should you have the bellboy bring to your room such items as ice water, magazines, etc., give him a 10 or 15-cent tip. For any errand sending him outside of the hotel he should receive 25 cents or more, depending upon the distance.

Twenty-five cents for an overnight stay is sufficient for the chambermaid.

In the dining room it is customary for transient guests to tip at each meal. In the large hotels the minimum is 25 cents for each person, irrespective of the amount of the check. The 10 percent rule applies to all checks over $2.50. It is not necessary to tip the headwaiter if staying for only one or two meals. He should be tipped by guests staying a week or more. The tip should vary from $1 to $5, depending upon the service required.

New Angle To Neutrality.
Economic Interests Involved.
Cotton Enters Into Problem.

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Columnmist

HERE IS A new angle to the neutrality problem as seen through the eyes of a keen Washington observer and submitted to this column. This is his view:

"The undeclared war between China and Japan is having an unrecognized, although powerful, reflection in a division of interests between the north and the south in the United States.

"That is the view of government experts who have been observing the ebb and flow of United States sentiment toward one faction or hostilities.

"Information from reliable sources reveals that heavy pressure is being brought to bear upon United States government officials by two opposing sets of economic interests to favor either one side or the other in the Far Eastern imbroglio. The 'pressure groups' line up roughly into northern and southern factions.

"The cotton growing south is exerting all its economic and political strength to prevent any action by the United States government which might be prejudicial to relations with Japan. Indeed, it is whispered that President Roosevelt's decision not to invoke the United States neutrality law against both Japan and China, was strongly influenced by southern Democratic senators who advised the White House that any such action would alienate the south much more irrevocably than it has been thus far by 'radical' New Deal measures."

AS WRITER SEES IT

"The reason in the first place that the south looks with favor on the cause of Japan in the present situation is that Japan is the best customer in the world for the south's great exports of cotton. It was recently revealed that Japan, in 1936, bought 1,550,000 bales of southern cotton from the United States. That made Japan the leading world purchaser of U. S. cotton.

"In 1935 Japan bought 1,479,000 bales of cotton from this country; in 1934 our cotton export to Japan amounted to 1,764,000 bales. It was pointed out in high official quarters recently that Japan had been the United States' leading cotton customer for the past five years or more.

"The south of course, despite the advance of industrialization in some areas, is still primarily a cotton growing region. Below the Mason and Dixon line, it is true today, as it was half a century ago that 'Cotton is King'.

"It is also true that no section or region wants to lose the best customer it has for its leading product through the functionings of international diplomacy. Yet that was exactly the danger that southern cotton growing interests saw, and still see, in the events which are occurring on the delta of the Yangtze river around Shanghai."

NO DECLARATION—BUT

Not since 1917 has a major nation declared war. Yet in the intervening years there have been a number of far-reaching sanguinary conflicts. What might be termed Mars' modern technique does not require a formal declaration of war—armies are mobilized, soldiers and civilians are slaughtered, cities are devastated and governments change even while, officially speaking, actual war does not exist.

In Italy's Ethiopian campaign, for example, war was not declared—but the result of the invasion was to eliminate the Ethiopian Monarchy and make the country into an Italian colony governed by the Italian Military. Russia and France have not declared war on the Spanish Insurgents, nor have Germany and Italy broken off relations with the Spanish Government—yet it is no secret that Franco's cause has been kept alive with the aid of German and Italian troops and equipment, while the government forces would have collapsed long since had it not been for Russian airplanes and armaments and French Military experts. Today in the Far East the world is again witnessing a war without a declaration of war that is of the utmost significance not only to the nations involved, but to the Western World as well.

Japan has gone to the limit in recent years to build up her army and navy. For a small country, she has an amazing military machine, far superior to that of the Chinese—though China herself has made progress in unifying and strengthening the country. China's greatest weakness has always been the corruption of their local governments—as Oswald Garrison Villard has written. "The purchasing of Chinese statesmen and generals is

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 15.

Once Upon Sept. 15th—James Fenimore Cooper, who was born 168 years ago today, was without experience as a writer (he had, in fact, been expelled from Yale for poor scholarship!) When one day in the course of reading an English novel to his wife, he casually remarked, "I believe I could write a better story myself."

Thousands and thousands have made that remark.

Mrs. Cooper's response was, "Why don't you?"

Thus challenged and encouraged, Cooper did.

The resultant Leatherstocking Tales and other works, remain among the most enduringly popular of all American literature. Cooper is the best known of all American novelists abroad. Thackeray, Victor Hugo and Balzac all paid tribute to Cooper's power as writer and Joseph Conrad acknowledged him as his master.

Yet in his own time American critics attacked Cooper! One said of him, in 1841: "He has disparaged American lakes, ridiculed American scenery, burlesqued American coin, and even satrized the American flag!" Such epithets caused him to sue four editors, including Horace Greeley, for libel. (He won three of the cases.)

George B. Seldon had to do a lot of suing, too, to establish his rights. Having won the suits, the Rochester, N. Y., man collected a royalty on all automobiles manufactured in the U. S. for 15 years, on the basis of a patent granted him 42 years ago today.

Seldon had filed his application for a patent in 1879, it required 16 years for him to convince the Patent Office a horseless carriage was a worthwhile invention and get financial backers.

The idea had flashed on him when he saw a steam road-roller. After study he decided steam was not the best power for light vehicles, and designed a gasoline engine to do the work.

Seldon got less than $200,000 in royalties under the patent, before it was upset in a long court battle by Henry Ford. He had drawn up his own patent application and had failed to give his idea sufficient coverage to protect him against infringements by manufacturers using other types of engines.

Snow Removal Plans Are Underway For Highways

By WARREN VAN DYKE
Secretary of Highways

HARRISBURG, Sept. 15.—Mid-September finds most Pennsylvanians still thinking of the last pleasant days of summer but engineers of the Department of Highways already have started mapping out one of the department's major winter-time tasks—that of snow removal.

Although temperatures still will remain high for some time, the department wants to make certain, as in previous winters, that it will be fully prepared to cope with the first snowfall.

Engineers are carefully studying the state system of 40,600 miles, listing the major routes that must first be cleared of snow and ice. Crews of men and stored equipment are being checked now so that the snow removal program can swing into action on a wide front at the first sign of snow flurries.

This winter, we will be prepared better than ever before for the job of keeping the highways open to traffic and eliminating slippery and icy conditions. Every section of the state may rest assured it will be taken care of in this important public service, regardless of the severity of the weather.

With the addition of new mileage to the state highway system by each legislature, the snow removal program has been increasing steadily.

During the winter of 1935-36—the most severe in the history of the department—expenditures for snow removal, including cindering and placing and removing of snow fence, reached an all-time high of $5,771,271, or $3.20 per registered motor vehicle. This was an increase of $3,131,732 over the previous winter and was due largely to the amount of snow and frequency of snow storms which were greater than encountered in any previous winter season.

The 1936-37 program included 13,074 miles of state highways and approximately 2500 miles of rural highways. Snow fences, which aid in preventing snow from forming drifts on the highway, totaled 8,875,236 feet in 1935-36 and the next winter, 10,075,236 feet.

Last winter the department spent $2,175,000 to remove snow from state highways; $705,000 from rural roads; $90,000 from borough streets. These costs also covered cindering of icy roads and the placing of snow fences. An act of 1931 states specifically that the department is not empowered to undertake snow removal or cindering of icy streets in cities.

Cindering has become a major safety factor in winter driving. Thousands of tons of cinders are stored along the highways at strategic locations in the fall and when needed are spread by hand, trucks, or by cinder spreaders.

Aside from permitting a free flow of traffic, snow removal aids materially in reducing maintenance costs. By not allowing ice and snow to remain for any length of time, damage to the pavement is reduced.

An "army" of workers, which has reached a maximum of 34,338, is maintained during the winter. Snow removal equipment starts operating when the fall of snow has reached a depth of two inches, and remains in operation until the roads are cleared.

The department's equipment for snow removal includes 370 one and one-half ton trucks, 511 three-ton trucks, 22 five-ton trucks, 102 tractors, 131 grade plows, 1265 blade plows, 131 grader plows, eight rotary plows on trucks, 24 rotary plows on tractors, and 82 tractor "V" plows. The department also owns 98 cinder spreaders. Rented machinery includes 296 trucks, 242 plows and 10 tractors.

"The are other manufactured products in which Japan has been a leading competitor of the United States. Metals, novelties, leader goods, are included.

"The northern manufacturing areas would just as soon see their Japanese competition in the domestic market eliminated. That explains the advocacy, by certain powerful economic blocs, of drastic action in the Sino-Japanese situation, even to direct intervention against Japan.

"That may explain the perplexing situation in which the administration finds itself."

IN REBUTTAL

Our own view is that President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull will act regardless of any conflicting economic interests—if and when a neutrality proclamation will be in the interests of peace, and not conflict. And that the majority of the American people, regardless whether they live in the south or the north, will support the president. The majority of people realize that there can be no greater benefit to them than peace.

no longer find a market in Tokio, unless the cotton were transported in Japanese ships (due to the 'cash and carry' provision in the United States neutrality law). Inasmuch as the Japanese merchant marine is occupied in the transport of troops and in other war duties, there would be precious little cotton taken off the wharves of Dixie bound for Japan.

"That explains why southerners went to work to prevent the United States from antagonizing Japan by word or deed. Many observers say that this explains why southerner Cordell Hull, who also happens to be secretary of state in charge of the international relations of the United States, has been careful to avoid making statements condemning Japan.

"This is in the face of what many insiders assert to be a genuine feeling which Secretary Hull has for the underdog, China, in the Far Eastern hostilities.

"This, then, explains the connection between a bumper cotton crop (this year's crop of over 16 million bales is one of the largest in the history of the nation), and southern "pressure' on behalf of Japan."

ON THE OTHER HAND

"But what is the economic explanation of the activity of northern economic interest in behalf of China and against Japan? It is undeniable that there has been considerable activity of this sort. And the reason for it is just as simple as that for the attitude of the southern interests.

"Northern states are manufacturing centers. The textile manufacturing industry is one of the basic industrial activities of the nation. Uncle Sam's leading competitor in textile manufacturing is none other than Japan, which imports cotton from the United States, manufacturers textile goods, and sells the goods in the world market in competition with the United States and Great Britain.

"Especially in the lucrative Latin American market—in Brazil, Argentina, Chile and Peru — Japanese competition has been severe.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

Japan's long suit; it has advanced her and her policy of conquest far more rapidly than have her rifles and cannon." The central, Nanking government has usually proven unable to control the superabundant local war lords—each with his own interest at heart and each suspicious of the others. The situation as it exists in China, is as if each American state governor had a great private army which he could use for any purpose he wishes, even to the extreme of fighting the armies of neighboring governors.

As a consequence, because of Japan's far more efficient and modern war machines, it is believed certain that the Japanese will encounter relatively little trouble in conquering the north provinces. She will take over cities and accomplish destruction on a vast scale, and probably replace present local governments with puppet Chinese governments controlled by the Japanese, as she did in Manchuria. But in the long run, Japan's chances of success are dubious. China is a tremendous country, with the largest population in the world. Not since the dawn of history has it been permanently conquered—over a period of many years, the invaders itermarry with Chinese and are virtually swallowed by the immense country. China has more than half a billion people as against Japan's 75,000,000.

Furthermore, it seems inconceivable that Japan will be permitted by other powers to advance unhindered into China. Russia is strongly anti-Japanese and will, if matters go far enough, throw her resources to the side of China. Military men of the world would be very interested if Russia did this for they would like to know how efficient is this much boasted Russia war machine.

It is a question whether Japan's financial resources are sufficient to stand a long struggle—today more than 50 per cent of her government's budget is earmarked for the army and navy and she has a soaring national debt.

So here is another grave threat to world peace—the gravest, perhaps that has yet appeared. Whether war is actually declared is only of theoretical importance—to all intents and purposes a major war is now underway in the Far East, and interests directly affecting every nation in the world are involved.

been quiet and he moved stiffly and would not let us touch his head and we had been worried about him.

So we took him to a young and sympathetic veterinarian and asked him for an opinion . . . He wasn't encouraging. He didn't think he could get all the quills out. And it was true that some might work down into his brain and eyes and it would be a very painful time for our little dog. So we asked him whether he was trying to advise us to have our Snap put painlessly away. He nodded his head and we accepted his opinion and asked him to do that to Snap for us.

We asked him to do it, and went away with unashamed tears in our eyes . . . He was a good little dog, always affectionate, not always obedient. Sometimes he annoyed us with his noise and nervousness, but we did love him and there was always joyful life in him. He was gladly alive and it was good to have him in our house, in our family. He was a part of us and we miss him terribly . . . If his spirit barks gaily today on some green hill where there are uncatchable rabbits who enjoy the chase as much as he, I know he has already forgiven us for our failure and human ignorances. He held no grudges in life, he would hold no grudges now; because he always knew our fondness for him.

Mrs. Gorman and Miss Anna Love were joint hostesses for the evening. Twenty-nine members were present.

An instructive program on "Christian Women in Missions and Temperance" was presented. Devotions were led by Mrs. Rhoda Dumbaugh, in which scripture from the 15th Psalm was read, and a prayer cycle was conducted opened by Mrs. Bernard Hook and closed by Mrs. Milt Book. The following readings and papers were then presented:

Mrs. Cohen, "Liquor Revenue Versus American Morals," Mrs. Dumbaugh, "Milk Bar at a Notable Wedding," Mrs. Orr, "Christian Woman's Place in Temperance;" Mrs. Kildoo, "Our W. C. T. U. Work in Foreign Mission Fields;" Mrs. Clare Lutz, "Temperance Reform;" Mrs. E. A. McLure, "When the Liquor Man Goes to Church," and also a statement of Mahatma Ghandi on the liquor problem in the United States; Mrs. Charles Harris read the commendation from the Reformed Presbyterian Synod in North America, on the splendid temperance educational program of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Mrs. J. H. Kocher reported for the investigation committee of the need for books on temperance in the public library and it was decided to place a volume on this work in the East Side branch library as a gift from the union.

Following the program the president, Mrs. Floyd Moore, opened the business meeting with prayer and reports of the various committees were given and accepted. The membership committee stated that the membership had doubled during the year, a record of which the members are justly proud; Mrs. Rhoda Dumbaugh has been given the title "ambassador," having brought thirteen new members into the union. Ribbons were also given to Mrs. Abe Kildoo, Mrs. Floyd Moore and the title "courier."

Delegates were appointed to attend the county convention in Ellwood City September 21.

Election of officers resulted as follows:

President, Mrs. Floyd Moore; vice president, Mrs. Abe Kildoo; secretary, Mrs. G. G. Orr assistant secretary, Mrs. E. A. McLure; treasurer, Mrs. Milt Book and assistant treasurer, Mrs. Charles Harris.

The hostess, assisted by Miss Emma Magee, and Mrs. Bates, served delicious refreshments during the social hour.

Battle Starts In North China

Japs Launch Offensive Against More Than 300,000 Chinese Troops

BIG PUSH STARTED ON NORTHERN FRONT

Claim Japs Gain Strategic Successes — Volunteers Co-operating

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, Sejt. 15.—The largest pitched battle since the outbreak of hostilities July 7 began in north China today, according to Japanese news agency reports from Tientsin.

The advices said the Japanese launched a general offensive against more than 300,000 Chinese troops along a 50-mile front in the Honan province plains.

If true, this report indicates the great extent of the Japanese southward drive from the Peiping-Tientsin region, since Honan province is situated south of Shansi, Hopei and Shantung provinces.

The attack was directed chiefly against Chinese detachments stationed along the Peiping-Hankow railroad

According to the agency reports the Japanese already have gained several strategic successes and have captured several towns where five Chinese divisions had been established since August.

Simultaneously with the opening of the Japanese "big push" on the northern front, Emperor Hirohito appointed General Hisaiichi Terauchi supreme military commander of Japanese forces in north China.

General Iwane Matsui was named supreme commander of the Shanghai zone. Both men were ordered to assume their commands immediately.

These appointments immediately recalled previous indications that the imperial announcement of supreme war commanders would be the signal for major Japanese offensives designed to "bring China to her knees."

Thus more than ordinary significance was attached to the opening of the drive in north China and to the situation in Shanghai, where the Japanese troops were reported preparing to unleash a terrific drive on Chinese detachments in the Pootung area.

It was believed that with General Matsui in charge of operations, Shanghai may be in for fighting many times more intense and ferocious than anything it has yet suffered—despite the fact large areas of the metropolis lie in ruins.

The imperial announcements were believed to be all the Japanese troops were waiting for before setting about in earnest on their announced plan to "annihilate 26 Chinese divisions"—which would mean killing off practically the entire Chinese army.

The almost incredible figure of 1,570,000 Japanese volunteers thruout Japan are cooperating with military authorities in training civilians in the art of defending themselves against attack from the air.

Girl Reserve Leaders Confer

Officers And Advisers Of All Clubs Meet In Y. W. C. A. Tuesday

MAKE PLANS FOR NEW CLUB SEASON

Officers and advisers of the Girl Reserve clubs in New Castle and Lawrence county convened in the Y. W. C. A. Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock for a discussion of the new season's plans.

Tea was served by a committee comprised of the Misses Georgia Ringer, Mary Margaret Flynn, Ida Mae Smith, Cecelia Turner and Rosetta Treharne, and then the business session was placed underway with the introduction of Miss Marguerite D. White, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A. and Miss Jane Young, new chairman of the Girl Reserve department.

It was recommended that each club have a general meeting during the week of September 20 when all girls of junior and senior age be invited to attend, and former Girl Reserves will explain the meaning, aims and ideals of membership, in dramatic form.

Another recommendation was that new members be admitted at meetings during the week of September 27 and that they pay their dues and repeat the Girl Reserve code at that time.

Some discussion ensued concerning recognition of the new members. Some of the officers were of the opinion that each club should have its own recognition service; others believed there should be one union service in a downtown church in which new members of all clubs be recognized. The matter was tabled and will be brought before the clubs at their own meetings for further discussion.

There will be two sitting-up conferences in the Y. W. C. A. in October; the first for senior Girl Reserves on October 7 the other for junior Reserves on October 14.

All conferees agreed that special emphasis should be given to the code this year. The clubs will try to have several programs to make the code a more vital part of Girl Reserve life.

The turning point in life is when you quit saying you feel good when you don't and begin saying you feel awful when you don't.

CONGRATULATIONS

To the Winner, Mr. Lockley. With the promise of my support in November, and many thanks to those who helped me.

Nine Power Pact On China Called 'Scrap Of Paper'

Major Signatories Stand Aloof In Face Of Japanese Violation

By ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The nine power pact guaranteeing the sovereignty of China has become just another "scrap of paper", foreign diplomats here privately admit.

Germany's violation of Belgium's neutrality in 1914 brought Great Britain swiftly into war but Japan's present military operations in north China have not evoked even a warning from any of the other major powers with whom Japan signed a solemn agreement in Washington in 1922 to keep "hands off" China.

Neither Britain, the United States, France nor the smaller signatories look with favor upon Japan's move to seize north China as she took over Manchukuo in 1931-32. These nations have vast interests in China and under the nine power treaty have equal rights with Japan. The United States, which sponsored the "open door" policy in China, and the other powers stand to lose huge economic interests now in the four north China provinces, just as they lost them in Manchukuo.

Powers Keep Aloof.

The powers don't like it, but it is generally agreed by their diplomats that there isn't anything they can do about it.

Japan, they agree however reluctantly, apparently is going to do just about as she pleases in China because the only way she can be stopped is by military force

And Japan cannily realizes that no nation is going to war to save China, no more than the powers halted her in the Manchukuo seizure, or than they stopped Italy's conquest of Ethiopia, or the unofficial intervention of Italy and Germany in the Spanish civil war.

General Chiang Kai-shek, China's strong man, his army, and the Nanking government, diplomats agree, are the only things that stand in Japan's way.

Russian Stand Tested

More than the United States, or Britain, or the other signatories to the nine power pact, Japan feared the Soviet Union's attitude. Russia is not a signatory to the pact but was the one unknown factor in the present situation. Japan knew from the Manchukuoan incident that Britain, the United States, France or the League of Nations wasn't going to offer serious interference with her plans but she didn't know what Russia would do.

So she found out. And the answer was "nothing".

It is generally agreed by foreign experts that the Amur river border clash in which Manchukuoan land batteries opened fire on and sank one Soviet gunboat and crippled two others was a "feeler" to see if Russia would fight. Russia arbitrated and yielded virtually to all Japan's demands.

Russia Avoiding War.

Russia, according to foreign experts, wants to avoid a war at this time almost as fervently as the United States.

Under the nine power pact the powers, including Japan, agreed "to respect the sovereignty, independence, territorial and administrative sovereignty of China. It was signed at Washington, Feb. 6, 1922, between the United States, Great Britain, Japan, China, France, Belgium, Italy The Netherlands and Portugal.

State Requires That Raccoons Be Licensed

Yes Sir, And If You Don't Have Permit October 1, Watch Out

If you've got a raccoon pet around the house, you'd better get the fellow a license—and quick!

May sound strange to you, but Game Warden Frank L. Coen warned today that all who happen to have raccoons in their possession must get state permits to keep them. The licenses may be had at no cost by writing Harrisburg. But the licenses must be obtained.

"We're instructed to wait until October 1 before we enforce the new law," Coen said. He announced a $25 fine will be imposed on violators after that date.

The game protector said the reason for the permits is to enable the state to keep exact tab on the number of raccoons in the state.

Chinese Casualties Reported Over 60,000

(International News Service)

TOKYO, Sept. 15.—There have been about 60,000 Chinese casualties and "considerable" Japanese losses in more than 70 fierce battles since Japanese troops launched their North China campaign from the Great Wall August 20, Tokyo authorities estimated today.

They said this drive culminated with yesterday's occupation of the town of Kwangling, thus clearing Chahar province of all Chinese troops.

Legion Men Checking In

Delegates From Distant Points Arriving For New York Convention

FIRST DELEGATE FROM MEXICO CITY

By KENT HUNTER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The Legion began checking in, officially, Tuesday.

With delegates from distant points around the globe came committee heads of the national organization, and with them advance reports of what the Legion has done in 1937 and plans to do in 1938.

The first actual delegate to arrive at headquarters was Paul Holsinger, from Mexico City. Pretty 15-year-old Lupe Winfield, daughter of Delegate Max Winfield, also of Mexico City, was with him. Twenty-two other Legionnaires in the Mexico City group arrived, but did not report at once at headquarters.

Fifteen minutes behind the Mexico City delegate was J. E. Shriftgeizer, delegate from Panama. The Panama party consists of 14 Legionnaires.

Headquarters has also been notified that delegates are enroute from France, Italy, Canada, the Philippines, Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, Argentina, Belgium, China, Cuba, Denmark Dutch East Indies, Greece, Guam, Guatemala, Ireland, London, Scotland and Sweden. Wherever Legionnaires have scattered since the World war ended they have formed American Legion posts and those posts are sending delegates to the convention.

The first committee report that will be made to the convention and released at headquarters was that of the national child welfare committee, Roland B. Howell, chairman.

Society Leader Commits Suicide

Body Of Wife Of Wealthy Philadelphia Bakery Owner Found In Laundry

(International News Service)

OCEAN CITY, N. J., Sept. 15.—The body of the young and pretty Philadelphia society leader, Mrs. Elaine Hanscom, 29, wife of Richard S. Hanscom, wealthy baking company head, was found in the laundry room of their summer residence here Tuesday.

Police listed the case as a suicide.

Edward Rigley, father of the dead woman, discovered the body after he was awakened by the smell of gas. Four jets were open on a small gas range in the laundry room and towels had been stuffed under the door.

A police emergency squad worked vainly for two hours in an effort to revive the victim.

Mrs. Hanscom left a note to her mother but its contents were not revealed. Police said they could learn no reason why Mrs. Hanscom would wish to take her life.

The Hanscoms, who live at 6604 N. 11th street, Philadelphia, have a five-year-old son, Richard, Jr.

Unrelated Twins Dress Differently

Attend Classes At Detroit High School Dressed In Chimayo Jackets

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Sept. 15.—Pauline Taylor and Pauline Taylor, the "unrelated identical twins," entered classes in their senior year at Southeastern high school today dressed differently for the first time in two years.

They wore Chimayo jackets, no two of which are identical.

The red-haired girls, unknown to each other until two years ago when the similarity in their appearance and temperaments brought them widespread publicity, have been constant companions since they met. They are now 17.

They were born two hours apart. Their mothers, Mrs. Lulu Taylor and Mrs. Lydia Taylor, have become close friends through their daughters.

First Check For Building Program In Pennsylvania

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 15.—Following several months of negotiations with the federal government, the General State Authority on Tuesday received its first check toward its $65,000,000 institutional building program.

The check, totalling $61,250, represented about one-third of a grant for work at the Laulerton State Village project, Union county.

The Berwick Lumber Supply company was the low unofficial bidder at $333,000. The bid was for the general construction of two cottages and an administration building.

The allocation for the entire project was $1,225,000 and bids for a hospital, recreation building and changes in the electric, sewage and power house systems will be opened later. Six bids were offered today.

University Of Pennsylvania Celebration

Two Hundredth Anniversary Of Institution To Come In Three Years

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 15.—Tracing its origin to Benjamin Franklin, the University of Pennsylvania, fourth in size of faculty and seventh in student enrollment among the nation's institutions of higher learning, already is planning to celebrate its 200th anniversary as the first actual American university.

A $12,500,000 fund campaign beginning October 18 and reaching alumni, scholars, educators, business and professional men and philanthropists in the four corners of the world will be the first major event of a series of celebrations planned for the next three years in anticipation of the Bicentennial year in 1940.

The Bicentennial observance, already tentatively outlined, is expected to include a series of institutes and symposia of international significance at which American and foreign scholars are to deliver lectures on progress in a dozen fields of human learning and point the direction of future inquiry. Other Bicentennial events are to include an academic ceremony in which distinguished visitors will take part and a program of athletic, commemorative and social events.

Fourth Oldest College

Originating in 1740 when a group of Colonial citizens erected a frame building in what once was an open field in the heart of Philadelphia, the University was antedated on American shores only by Harvard, which celebrated its Tercentenary in 1936, and by William and Mary, and Yale.

In contrast, alumni point out, to the forthcoming Bicentennial financial program which will make an appeal to thousands for renewing and strengthening the resources of the present university, the first solicitation of funds in 1740 raised a few hundred dollars to erect the original building as a "Place of Public Worship and Charity School."

The building was used by the Rev. George Whitefield, great English evangelist, for crowds of staid Colonial citizens attracted by his preaching and became the headquarters of an "Academy," from which the modern institution grew.

Franklin Influence Vital

Largely through the influence of Franklin, president of the university's first board of trustees, according to historical records, Pennsylvania was the first American college to break with the ecclesiastical education tradition which bound most Colonial schools.

In addition to religious subjects, courses in academic fields which now are standard in American colleges and universities were established by Pennsylvania which claims distinction in having founded, in 1765, the first medical school in America. A charter as a university was granted in 1789 in recognition of the establishment at Pennsylvania of such branches of professional learning as distinct from courses offered by the undergraduate college.

More than 50,000 living alumni of the university now are scattered throughout the United States and 65 foreign countries, according to alumni records, and are being organized in the fund endeavor which, in effect, will raise a "200th birthday gift" for the university in 1940. Pennsylvania's student enrollment is placed at more than 15,000 men and women while its faculty numbers in excess of 1,300 teachers.

Duke Of Windsor Yearning For Home

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1937)

LONDON, Sept. 15.—The Duke of Windsor is yearning for English faces and scenes and his anxiety over possibility of an early visit home was the main topic of a lengthy telephone talk with his mother, Monday night, it was learned by International News Service today.

During the conversation, the Duke assured the Queen Mother his married life was most happy.

He told of how his lengthy stay in Central Europe far from the cares and worries of home had benefited his health, but said he had missed his mother and other members of his family greatly.

In particular, the Duke asked about his young nephews and nieces.

Queen Mary, at present a guest of her daughter, the Countess of Harewood, at Harewood House in Yorkshire, supplied her son with all the latest family news and gossip and told him of the progress of the royal youngsters.

The Duke's mother expressed the hope he was taking good care of himself in every way. Windsor expressed some disappointment over failure of the Duke and Duchess of Kent to visit him, but Queen Mary bade him have patience.

Perhaps most significant of all, Queen Mary inquired kindly after the Duchess of Windsor, the former Mrs. Wallis Warfield.

McCarthy was nominated the champion horse shoe pitcher, but not until after he had demonstrated to the assembled athletes (with horse shoes) his fitness for that title. Dan threw two double ringers and many singles in winning the title.

FOUR BILLION GALLONS OF WATER PER DAY

Needed to make steel; four times New York City needs.

More than four times as much water is used per day by the iron and steel industry when operations are at full capacity as is consumed in all five boroughs of New York City, the Iron and Steel Institute has estimated.

The highest daily average of water on record for the five boroughs of New York City was 985,300,000 gallons, the average in 1930.

The annual consumption of water by the steel industry is estimated at one trillion, four hundred sixty million gallons.

Approximately 45 per cent is used to make steam, while an additional 29 per cent is used to cool furnace doors and rolls, operating hydraulic machinery and washing away the scale which forms when hot steel is rolled. Another 20 per cent is used to cool giant blast furnaces which reduce iron ore to metallic iron. The other 6 per cent is used in the operation of quenching the white hot coke as it comes from the coke ovens.

Black Is Quiet On Klan Charge

Emphatically Refuses To Confirm Or Deny Charge To Newsman

TELLS REPORTER HE HAS NOTHING TO SAY

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Tired and haggard, Associate Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black of Alabama today emphatically refused to confirm or deny allegations he accepted membership in the Ku Klux Klan.

Black talked to an International News Service correspondent in the first interview he has granted since publication of the charges in the United States.

Ignoring assertions by members of the staff at Black's hotel that the associate justice was in Paris and was not returning, an International News Service correspondent went to Black's suite and knocked at the door.

Black wearing pyjamas and with a tired, worried expression, opened the door a few inches, revealing the breakfast table within his room.

Abruptly he asked the correspondent his business. The reporter replied:

"I wanted you to make a statement confirming or denying or otherwise clearing up the situation caused by allegations that you are a member of the Ku Klux Klan."

Black shot back:

"I have no statement to make. I am not confirming or denying anything."

Asked whether he had read the charges, Black replied:

"I do not read newspapers, I don't want to read them."

Informed of a report printed by a London Newspaper that the American embassy had got in touch with him, Black remarked:

"I still have nothing to say."

Then he shut the door of his room.

Meanwhile, the hotel took extraordinary precautions to conceal the fact that Black is still in London. Telephone operators refused to accept any calls for him.

Even newspapers were not sent to his room for fear reporters might try to smuggle some message to him.

Says General Fall Business In U. S. Will Be Better

Roger W. Babson Presents Views

More Money To Spend—No Prediction Of Boom Is Made, However

STILL BULLISH ON STOCK MARKET

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—"General business is bound to be better this fall than last fall—with our tremendous crops nothing can stop it."

Roger W. Babson, statistician, made this prediction Tuesday to business men of Boston at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon.

He is generally credited with having predicted the disastrous "black Friday" crash of the stock market in 1929, a prelude to the depression.

Forecasts No Boom

"Farmers, wage workers and stockholders will all have more money to spend," Babson said. "I am forecasting no boom; but I do promise business improvement.

"High grade bonds have seen their peak. Most second grade bonds are selling for all they are worth. We are in a gradually declining bond market.

"As to stocks, I am still bullish for the next few months. Certain stocks are bound to sell much higher. If the country enters a period of real inflation the bull market has only just started. Although the present technical reaction may not have yet run its full course, it is very dangerous to go short on stock today.

Politics And Labor

"What about politics and labor? Well, I am optimistic on these factors. Congress is at last no longer an echo board. The New Deal is at last being questioned by the Democrats themselves. Conservative Democrats are again coming to their senses, while radical Republicans are cutting their throats. Even the president has decided to give up great remedies—but to let us make as much as we can and then take it away in taxes.

"As for labor troubles, (John L.) Lewis has been enjoying a bull labor market. He may quit in time but the chances are he will overstay his bull labor market in 1937 as many of you overstayed the bull stock market in 1929. It is foolish to buck tides. Just be patient until the tide turns. In the meantime buy more labor-saving machines. Collective bargaining is here to stay but not long labor contracts.

Babson saw on the horizon a boom in the building industry—"before long people will see that a home and kids is a better investment than a car and gas."

On Communism and other "isms" Babson said: "Gradually a social revolution will come about. It, however, will be caused by scientists in laboratories—not by radicals in congress."

Inflation, Babson declared, is largely responsible for the unemployment situation. He added: "I say that the chances are six to four that we are headed toward a 20 per cent dollar. How else will our huge personal corporation and public debts be paid?"

Of the future: "Some year the installment debts of Main Street and the federal debts of Pennsylvania Avenue will become due when there will be no money to pay them. The vicious new tax on undistributed earnings, if continued, can make the next depression worse than the last."

Airplane Exports Show Increase

All Records Will Be Exceeded This Year Commerce Department Predict

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—American exports of airplanes and aeronautical equipment will smash all records this year with a total estimated value of $33,000,000, commerce department trade experts predicted today.

"With the July exports of aeronautic products from the United States eight per cent ahead of the previous month, the seven months' shipments in 1937 exceeded the value of such exports for the same 1936 period by 64 per cent," the department said.

"These exports through July, moving at the monthly average of $2,730,061, indicated a total of about $33,000,000 for the full year 1937, which is to be compared with $23,143,203, the previous record level set in 1936."

In the first seven months aeronautic exports totaled $19,110,425, against $11,639,450 the same period a year ago

China was American airplane builders' best customer in the seven months period, with a total of $2,442,908. The Netherlands were second with $2,181,000, while Russia was third with $1,429,000.

New Farm Program Being Maped Out

Farm Leaders Confer With Secretary Wallace On 1938 Program

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Farm leaders from all the states came here Tuesday to map out, under the guidance of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, a 1938 farm program which the administration leaders hope will be upset by new legislation.

The program will be laid out to comply with the current soil conservation act. This law was substituted hastily for the old AAA crop production control—rental and benefit payment plan which was invalidated by the supreme court Jan. 6, 1936.

Secretary Wallace has urged repeatedly a special session of congress to enact a new farm program. The adjournment of the session of congress a month ago was achieved only upon promise by the congressional leaders, and adoption of a resolution by both houses of congress, that farm legislation would be the first business of the next session.

Conferees at the two-day session include representatives of the state extension services, state executive officers and state agricultural committeemen.

Joy Wins For Dale Carnegie

Lecturer And Writer Reaps Harvest When Tide Of Depression Turns

ARTISTS TURN TO SCREEN ROLES

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Among Tad's most amusing cartoon drolleries were his Glooms and Joys, the sprightly, lugubrious little nippers who were always peeking out from some niche to herald woe or happiness. It was the solemn-faced Tad's conviction that the Joys eventually won the big breaks.

O. O. McIntyre

And a shining illustration of his thesis in the modern scene is Dale Carnegie. He has been the apotheosis of the Brighter Side. During the darkest days of the depression he was out lecturing that everything was going to be all right, yes sir. He fairly oozed optimism.

His Happy Jack philosophy became a football for the Glooms to kick around. He was the subject of many cartoon waggeries for his abundant cheerfulness. The revues heckled him for his outlook in some lyrics. But the smiling little man kept right on smiling.

And apparently he has grinned smack through. For today he is garnering enormous sums through his books, lectures and broadcasts. Some say his income for the current year will total a quarter million. He has two new books on the fire and an avalanche of lecture offers.

That recent movie, Artists and Models, provoked a cinema caper that brought the leading artists of America to the screen as actors. It happened this wise: Russell Patterson, who was working on it, had the idea that instead of having extras at the Artists Ball dressed as Rembrandt, Rubens, Raphael, etc., why not get some living artists on the set?

The outcome was that John La Gatta, Arthur William Brown, McClelland Barclay, Peter Arno and Rube Goldberg went to the coast and appeared in a scene with Jack Benny and Sandra Storme, England's most photographed model, all doing a drawing of her. They didn't make the boys dress like the old masters, although they framed them when they got there and made them believe for awhile they were to wear Prince Charming costumes, with laces and ruffles and such la de dah.

Rube Goldberg had a goofy scene with Benny that turned out so well every one advised him to get an agent. In fact, he did have two offers before leaving for New York. In the scene Benny says: "Hello, who are you?" Rube is supposed to say: "I'm Goldberg, Rube Goldberg." On the first take Rube looked blankly at him—he couldn't think of his name. Although it was not Rube's first acting experience. He used to do a vaudeville turn at Hammerstein's and over the Percy Williams circuit.

Autograph hunters are often pests to actors and actresses, but a strange reversal of form took place while the artists were making their scene. All the players, from stars to extras, cameramen, electricians and property boys were after the limners for autographs. One of Arthur William Brown's proudest possessions is a card of admittance reading: "Arthur William Brown, actor."

Employment agencies say the scantiness of domestic help is due largely that such help for families who live quietly and without show have been utterly spoiled working for big salaried actors, singers and radio stars. Such employers are lavish in entertaining and not particular in the details of housekeeping. They entertain in a big way and there is an abundance of liquor and caviar left for the servants' hall that need not be accounted for. Too, it is the custom of guests at such functions to tip lavishly. Also employers of such employees make frequent trips for several weeks and leave servants to own devices. Such easy-going berths are naturally those domestics seek.

Bob Davis, just in from India and off again for Alaska, missed the first heavyweight championship since the Corbett-Fitzsimmons smack-up in 1897, when he failed to see the Farr-Louis set-to. Bob has watched all the gradations of the championship fights and he has come to the conclusion that they are just a mite too sissified for a red meat eater.

An old settler from Oklahoma, bucking standardization, was explaining his viewpoint to Gene Crawley. "If Nature had seen anything in the idea," he drawled, "he wouldn't have made hippos and giraffes, snakes and elephants and the like."

Police take on a lot of people's troubles, but somewhere they have to draw the line, b'gosh. A woman telephoned Desk Sergeant Harry Schley of the Indianapolis police the other day and presented this problem: "Suppose a man and a woman were engaged and there were showers and presents. Then something happens and the engagement's off. How would you divide the presents?" The desk sergeant didn't know. "Well," the lady went on brightly, "I was wondering if you could send police out here to make some legal division of the presents." Schley gave her a "no" in his most tactful manner and advised: "Divide them yourselves—or send them back."

CINCINNATI, Sept. 15—Prof. John J. Seller, Beverly Hills, Calif., known as the "Flying Yank" noted heel and toe artist, is in charge of a program under the auspices of the city recreation commission to teach heel and toe walking to Cincinnati's school children.

Dr. Seller is well known for his numerous non-stop long distance runs. In 1934 he ran from Cincinnati to Columbus in 16 hours. A professional, he has never participated in the great amateur marathon races, and frankly says he enters long distance runs only for the money.

Although 41 years old, his athletic career has helped him retain a youthful appearance and he is often taken to be in his twenties.

Raise Huge Turntable At P.R.R. Shops

Placing New Trucks And Motors On Locomotive Turntable In Ward Shop

TABLE WEIGHS 45,000 POUNDS

A gigantic task was undertaken in the Seventh Ward shops of the Pennsylvania railroad Tuesday. Two giant cranes were called upon to raise the locomotive turntable out of its circle pit for the replacement of some of the parts.

An idea of the size of the job may be gained with a thought about the weight, which averages about 45,000 pounds. The table was lifted out of the pit and placed on a tall pile of huge square timbers.

Shop workmen then went to work placing new trucks and motors on the table and repairing the track in the pit. A new control house was placed on the table.

A near catastrophe resulted as the cranes were raising the table. One of the crane brakes broke and but for the thoughtfulness of the operator the table would have fallen back into the pit causing considerable damage to it.

The table will be lowered back in place by the two hundred ton cranes sometime today, or as soon as the work is completed.

Make Progress On Dredging In Shenango River

Many Tons Of Earth Have Been Removed From River Bed In Ward

Work has been steadily advancing on the dredging project in the Shenango river, near the Cherry street bridge, and many tons of earth have already been removed from the bed of the river.

One difficulty encountered on the job is when a heavy rain falls, and the river rises, the workers' improvised bridge is washed out and must be rebuilt before any work can go forward.

A deep channel has been erected on the Mahoningtown side of the river and it is on the wall of this channel that most of the work is now being concentrated.

A large steam shovel is now engaged filling trucks with earth from the east side of the river.

"Mystery Plane" Reported Flying Towards New York

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Reports of a new "mystery plane" flying the Atlantic toward New York puzzled aviation circles here today.

The trawler Thomas Whalen, from a position about 300 miles off the eastern seaboard and 500 miles northwest of Bermuda, wirelessed Mackay radio here today that shortly after midnight a bi-motored plane passed overhead bound west.

The trawler's message said the ship carried markings similar to the German aeronautical insignia.

Since both the German transatlantic survey planes are now at Port Washington, N. Y., and both are four-motored airplanes, the trawler's message caused speculation in aviation circles here. No regular transatlantic survey plane, German, American or British, is known to be in that section of the Atlantic.

Revolutions Tear Paraguay

Revolutions Start Quickly And At Times Quite Accidentally

RIVAL ELEMENTS STIR UP STRIFE

Central Press
Washington Bureau
602 Times-Herald Bldg.

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Revolutions are coming so fast in Paraguay these times that the state department's Latin-American division admits itself puzzled as to who, from day to day, is the government at Asuncion.

The Paraguayans staged an overturning about a month ago which landed Dr. Felix Paiva in the presidential chair. President Paiva lasted 23 days. Just as the state department was getting acquainted with Paiva, there was another revolt and he was kicked out. Colonel Rafael Franco, a previous president, was proclaimed Paiva's successor.

Had Franco been on the spot he might have held the job for a while, but it happened that he was living in exile in Buenos Aires. He made for Asuncion by plane as fast as he could, but it was 24 hours after Paiva's elimination before he could get there. In the meantime there had been still another upheaval and Paiva was back in office.

Nothing remained for Franco but to climb aboard his plane again and streak it out under forced draft.

Paraguay's latest revolutions are attributed to conflicts between rival elements in the Republic's army and navy.

Paraguay has a good-sized army, but its navy consists of a couple of power boats on the Paraguay river. Its personnel may run to a rozen or two, mostly officers. That is enough, considering that the republic is several hundred miles overland from the nearest salt water.

FREQUENT REVOLUTIONS

Paraguayan revolutions are frequent and some of them originate quite peculiarly, not to say accidentally.

One, with the circumstances of which I was very familiar, was staged just after the World war, when I was in the newspaper business at Buenos Aires, in the neighboring Argentine republic.

It was a funny affair.

MENNONITES MIGRATE

There dwelt then, and do yet, I suppose, a great many Mennonites in Saskatchewan, Canada. These Mennonites are pacifists, who had rough sledding while the war raged. They were thoroughly sick of it.

At that juncture along came a roving, adventurous but enterprising Norwegian by the name of Fred Engen.

"Why," asked Engen, "don't you let me transplant you in a new country, where your prejudices will be respected?" The Mennonites were not convinced. They said: "As soon as we get there our new country will get into a war, too, and we shan't be any better off than we are here in Canada."

"Leave that to me," said Engen.

And he headed for Paraguay.

PRESIDENT IS IMPRESSED

Engen laid his proposition before President Manuel Gondra, at Asuncion, the capital.

Those Mennonites are good people—thrifty, well to do in a modest way, an asset, as settlers, anywhere. Engen's plan was to transfer approximately 60,000 of them from Saskatchewan to the Paraguayan Chaco, over which, in later years, Paraguay and Bolivia have been fighting so bitterly.

He sought a land concession on easy terms for his prospective 60,000 colonists. He asked for entry of their possessions duty free. He asked taxation exemption for a 10-year period. He asked also that they and their descendants be exempted from military service in perpetuity. The Chaco, be it remembered, is almost uninhabited. Filling it up with such highly desirable immigrants looked to President Gondra like a first-class piece of economic business.

He jammed the necessary legislation through congress.

"LIKABLE" TROUBLE MAKERS

In the meantime a coterie of not too respectable North Americans at Asuncion had been trying to "horn in" financially upon Engen's prospective profits.

Engen told them to go hunt a warmer climate. So did President Gondra.

Enraged, four or five these Yankees came down the Paraguay river to Buenos Aires, figuring on some scheme to put a spoke into Engen's wheel until he acquiesced in their demands.

They were a lawless bunch. I remember one of them especially.

Sitting one day in a Buenos Aires cafe with him, the conversation touched upon some past event, the date of which we were not quite sure.

"I think," said this man, "that it was in such-and-such a year. Yes, I'm sure it was, because it was that year that they were trying me in El Paso for killing a man."

That was the kind of chaps they were. But extremely likable.

AN UNFORTUNATE HINT

Listening to this man's complaint of Engen's recalcitrancy, I suggested (it was merely a chance thought; I had no interest in the matter), "Why don't you start a Paraguayan revolutionary scare? To hush it up, and avoid frightening off his Mennonites, Enger probably will be willing to do almost anything."

"How'd you do it?" the man queried, breathless.

"Oh," I said, "get some exiled Paraguayan here to talk about it."

A REVOLT SCARE

The man rushed out, as I subsequently learned, to consult with Dr. Eusebio Ayala.

Dr. Ayala (everybody of any consequence is a doctor in Latin America) was a prominent Paraguaran but he was out of sympathy with the the Gondra regime; consequently he was an exile in Argentina. Naturally he gave this man all the incendiary chat which he required.

The man scattered it through the newspapers. It "took".

"Fine," said the man. "Now we'll be able to shake down Engen."

NO STOPPING IT

"I'd rather have a revolution," said Ayala, "and succeed Gondra."

"But," said the schemer, "that isn't what we want; we want what we want out of Gondra."

"Sorry to disappoint you," commented Ayala, "but I have my own future to consider."

Gondra resigned, with an automatic at each side of his head.

Ayala was the next president.

As previously remarked, these Paraguayan revolutions are semi-accidental.

On Court House Hill

Registration Clerk Thomas Edmunds announces that the next date on which registration opens for the November election will be on September 20. There are still around eight thousand voters in country districts who have failed to register. They can vote at the November election by registering after September 20.

County Treasurer Joseph H. Hartland has issued over four hundred hunting licenses to date this year. This is a larger number than has been issued this early for several years. According to reports there will be plenty of small game this year, particularly rabbits.

County commissioners spent the time yesterday traveling over the county to the different voting precincts, where minor difficulties were encountered. Many of the election officials this year were new to the business, having just been appointed previous to the holding of the primary. In the main they are reported to have done pretty well.

Frequent calls were made at the county registration bureau yesterday by voters who for one reason or another had been refused ballots. In one case a young lady had been married between the time she was registered and election day, and she wanted to find out her status. Another had moved across the street from her former residence, but into a new voting precinct, so she lost her vote. Some were uncertain where they were to vote and came to find out. Corrections will be made in the list before the general election.

Grand jurors who were summoned for court this week adjourned a little earlier on Tuesday in order that they might get home in time to vote. Those who live in the country either had their cars with them or friends came after them, so that practically all of them were enabled to cast their ballots.

Official count of the vote cast yesterday will be started by the county commissioners on Friday at noon. Under the new election law the county commissioners will also have charge of the counting of the vote following the general election. Formerly the court appointed tellers to count the vote and kept in session while they were at work.

Petition has been presented to court by Clarence L. and Myrtle Mashall of Enon to decree the satisfaction of an old mortgage. In January, 1865, a mortgage was given by Israel Clemmer, the then owner of the property to John Smith for $337, payable on January 1, 1866. It is supposed that the mortgage was paid but it was never satisfied on the record. The sheriff was directed to advertise for any holders of the mortgage, but none had appeared up until the time set yesterday and the court will make an order. A similar petition was presented by Frederick Koerner, also of Enon, in connection with a mortgage given to Mary Israel Clemmer for $575 in 1872 and presumed to have been paid but not satisfied.

In the case of Adelaide Timreck, Elizabeth Vogelius and Charles F. Vogelius against Mary Eva Clendenin and others involving the partition of certain property, an answer to the claim of petitioners has been filed by Charlotte and Bert L. Reed in which it is claimed that there are persons named as defendants who have no interest in the property in dispute. They are Stewart and Ethel Foltz Arthur and Virginia Brown, and Emma B. and De Grimm Renfro.

Under the will of the late Margaret Jane Frew of Slippery Rock township, which has been probated at the register and recorder's office, decedent left her property to her niece, Martha Houk, two-ninths, nephew, Glenn Shaffer, two-ninths and nephew, Roy K. Shaffer, five-ninths. Roy K. Shaffer is named as executor.

Outright Grant Of $129,000 Fund At Slippery Rock

Balance Of Building Fund Of $715,000 Will Be Combined Loan And Grant

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
(Special Washington Correspondent New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 15—An improvement program costing $842,000 will be undertaken at Slippery Rock State Teachers college as a result of action by President Roosevelt this week.

The President apportioned enough PWA funds to cover the entire cost of the project. Of this, $129,000 will be an outright grant. The balance of $71,000 will be a combined grant and loan, the amount of grant to be determined by volume of relief labor employed.

In announcing apportionment of this money, the PWA said the project called for new buildings and additions to present buildings at the college. Exact details were not disclosed. The state is sponsor of the project, and early commencement of contruction is anticipated.

Irwin Trial Will Not Start Monday

It will be postponed until a commission appointed to inquire into the sanity of the 29-year-old sculptor has reported to the court.

Two Men Stage Duel In Street

Constable In Hospital As Result Of Gun Battle At Waterbury

(International News Service)

WATERBURY, Conn., Sept. 15.—City Constable Frank DeSomma, 45, was in a hospital here with a bullet wound in his back and Michael Carusillo, 58, was arrested Tuesday following a gun duel on a street here this morning.

DeSomma claimed that Carusillo shot him because he had not been able to make good a promise to find the older man a job. He said he had just given Carusillo a half dollar and turned away when a gun barked and he felt a stinging pain.

Carusillo's version was that DeSomma owes him $500 and when he stopped him on the street and reproached him for not paying at least part of it, the constable made a move toward his gun pocket.

The exchange of shots was so rapid that none of many persons passing could give a clear version of what happened.

STRENUOUS WORKOUT FOR HIGH GRIDDERS

Butler Game Friday Night Will Test Power Of Red Hurricane

BUTLER ELEVEN SCRAPPY OUTFIT

Game Will Start At 8 O'Clock—Large Crowd Is Anticipated

Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh sent his New Castle high Red Hurricane gridion squad through a strenuous drill Tuesday afternoon in preparation for Friday evening's engagement with Butler high under the floodlights at Taggart stadium.

The large number of passersby who stopped to glance at the local squad witnessed a hotly contested scrimmage that was filled with action. The regulars found the reserve defense airtight most of the afternoon. Hawkey, Bud Fraser and "Hippo" Campbell made it miserable for the first team. The abovementioned lads spent most of the workout period in the regulars' territory. At right end Bud Fraser was one of the most impressive pigskin catchers in the football bowl. Time and again the regulars tried to cut through Fraser's side, but to no avail.

Three Regulars Missing

The first team played minus the services of Walter Palkovitch, Frank Copple and Eddie Dombroski. Copple and Dombroski are still nursing injuries sustained in the Har-Brack clash last Friday night. They will be ready for action, however.

The injury bug visited the Hurricane camp once more. This time Deep suffered a painful nose injury during the scrimmage session. He was forced to call it a day. His injury is not believed to be of a serious nature. At certain intervals the locals displayed flashes of form.

By Friday the entire squad is expected to be in condition for the game, with the exception of Johns. Jim Howley is improving nicely and may see action against the Soap Miners. Howley occupied one of the guard berths yesterday. Mumeyak, speed merchant, saw lots of action in the backfield. Gender also broke into the regulars line-up and shaped up well. Coach Bridenbaugh was not pleased with the outcome of the drill yesterday. Another hard workout is on today's schedule for the Hurricane machine.

Musings from Butler

While the Red Hurricane gridders go through their paces daily at the local football bowl, about 28 miles away Coach Heinzer is spending many hours preparing his Gold and White tornado for the coming engagement. While Friday's close score over Rimersburg high indicates that Butler must have had a tough time, one must not overlook the fact that the Soap Miners played a veteran outfit. Disposing of an aggregation of seasoned players, regardless of the fact that the game was an opener, sort of gives one an inkling of Butler's strength.

Coach Heinzer's eleven displayed considerable flashes of form. When it comes to pluck and fight, the visitors "have it". What the team lacks in brawn it makes up in fight and teamwork. More reports from the Butler camp: "Speed is the keynote of the Butler attack. Butler teams have always scaled the heights against their Lawrence county foe, and it is expected they will be right up on top when the New Castle contest arrives." The Butlerites proved that they always reach their heights, last season putting up one of the closest and hardest-fought tussles of the season.

If it takes a big delegation of followers and lots of cheering to win, the Butler eleven is right in there. As the battle time approaches the neighbors are arranging to send anywhere from 1,200 to 2,000 fans here.

Two Homers In Row Win For Newark, 2-1

Dazzling Hurling Duel Is Broken Up In Last Of Ninth Inning

(International News Service)

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 15—"Flash" Gordon and Jimmy Gleason of the Newark Bears shared the limelight today as the Bears and Syracuse Chiefs prepared to resume their semi-final International league play-off series tonight.

With Newark trailing 1 to 0 in the ninth inning of the first game of the series yesterday and two men out, Gordon and Gleason qualified as twin Frank Merriwells by hitting successive home runs. The blows broke up a dazzling hurling duel between Joe Beggs of the Bears and Earl Cook of the Chiefs, and staked the Bears to a 2 to 1 victory.

Syracuse's only score also was a homer, by Harry Craft.

The winner of the four-out-of-seven series will meet the winner of the Montreal-Baltimore series, scheduled to start at Montreal last night but postponed untfl tonight because of rain. The eventual winner will meet the American Association play-off champion in the little world series.

Rookie Hurlers Impress Harris

Senator Boss Plans Rebuilding 1938 Team With "Accent On Youth"

By LEON W. SHLOSS
International News Service Sports Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Fired by the splendid performances of his rookies, Manager Bucky Harris of the sixth-place Washington Senators announced his determination today to rebuild the club with the accent on youth.

"We're going to win or lose next year with youth," said Bucky.

Harris, as the original "boy wonder" manager, piloted the Senators to their first pennant and world championship in 1924. Since, as pilot of the Detroit Tigers, Boston Red Sox, and again the Senators, he rapidly gained and retained a reputation as one of baseball's shrewdest tacticians and handlers of athletes.

Now, in his 18th season as a manager, the still-youngish Pennsylvanian has enjoyed the almost unparalleled privilege of seeing a whole flock of his rookie hopefuls come along with a rush—and together.

Three young pitchers, literally unknown two weeks ago, form the hub of Harris' scheme. They are Ken Chase, who has suppressed the Yankees twice, allowing only 14 hits and three runs against the league leaders in 18 innings; Ray Phebus, who twirled a one-hit shutout victory against the Red Sox, then dropped a six-hit 2-1 decision to the Yanks, and Joe Krakauskas, who went against the Athletics on the short end of a 0-6 score, and gave one hit and no runs for seven innings while his mates mauled the A's for 13 tallies.

Along with Chase, Phebus and Krakauskas, Harris probably will mold his mound staff with the veterans Ferrell, Weaver, DeShong and Appleton.

Football Started In Civil War Times

Players Were Not Allowed To Carry Ball In Days When Game Was Young

First Intercollegiate Game

By WALTER JOHNS
Central Press Sports Writer

FIRST FOOTBALL rules were framed at Princeton and Rutgers in 1865.

The rules, which some believe may have been copied from English laws governing football, required 25 players to a side, placed goal posts (like our soccer posts) 25 feet apart.

The ball was to be kicked—carrying was forbidden. A ball caught in the air or on the first bound entitled the catcher to a free kick. A ball out of bounds was kicked in at right angles. A goal was scored by kicking under, not over, the goal posts. Six goals were necessary to win the game.

The football playing field was larger than today.

In 1869, the first intercollegiate football contest in the world was played on the village green at New Brunswick, N. J., between Rutgers and Princeton. Rutgers won, six goals to four.

Captain of the Princeton "25" that day was William S. Gummere, who later became chief justice of the New Jersey supreme court. The game was witnessed by 100 spectators.

In its account of the game, the Rutgers Targum summarized the play as follows: "'Princeton had the most muscle but didn't kick very well."

German Aces Trim Donald Budge, Mako

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 15—Everything stood even today between two of the world's greatest tennis doubles teams, Donald Budge and Gene Mako of the United States on one side, and Baron Gottfried Von Cramm and Henner Henkle of Germany on the other.

In an exhibition match yesterday at the Onwentsia club, the German combination defeoted Budge and Mako 9-7, 2-6, 7-5, 7-5, repeating the victory they scored at Brookline, Mass. two weeks ago to take the national doubles championship.

Budge and Mako vanquished Von Cramm and Henkle both at Wimbledon and in the Davis cup finals.

Former New Castle Gridders Scattered In Various Schools

LIKE in former years, New Castle is contributing its share to the most popular pastime of the fall season—football.

With the opening of the gridiron campaign not for off, a checkup today revealed that quite a few athletes who wore New Castle high colors a few years back, are scattered in institutions throughout the country and are strong contenders for positions.

Usually, after a high school gridder dons his uniform for the last time, he is a "forgotten man" unless he crashes the sports streamers of the country's leading newspapers. Herewith are the names of some of the former Red Hurricane lads who thrilled fandom at Taggart stadium and who are endeavoring to carve themselves a spot in the golden sport of the autumn season:

Two At Pitt

Among the outstanding former athletes are Walter Raskowski, who looms as a regular guard, and Charles Fleming, in the midst of the scramble for an end job, at Pitt. Raskowski, one of the sweetest linesmen in the history of New Castle high, is likely to win the starting berth. A third former New Castle athlete is an important figure in the Pitt camp—Alex Fox, one of the coaches.

Lawrence county is represented by two gridders at Notre Dame—the Shelloggs, Fred and Alex. At Western Reserve, Frank Crisci, mastodonic linesman, is among the outstanding candidates. Crisci wore a Red Hurricane uniform a couple of seasons ago.

At West Virginia Wesleyan, New Castle is represented by George Mike, stocky linesman, who played a prominent part in the victory over Duquesne university last year, and William Ciccone, brother of Ben Ciccone, noted Duquesne and professional gridder. Bill Chip, son of former middleweight champion of the world, George Chip, is on the grid squad at Duquesne. Walter Kominic, one of the outstanding fullbacks in the history of New Castle high, is enrolled at Akron, and looms as a regular, according to reports.

Several At Salem

Fleet-footed John Uram, J. Hitchens and Chuck James are battling for positions at Salem. Bill Seetch is also on the squad at that institution. Charles Mort, last season's sensation at New Castle, is enrolled at Slippery Rock. John Cabas is a student at Mt. Union. Shoup, a sensation with Bessemer, several years ago, is at Westminster.

There are still several Lawrence county pigskin catchers who have not been heard from as yet. No doubt their names will arise before the fans as the season gets in full swing.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Are Eddie Simms and Harold Dettman, heavyweight and middleweight of Cleveland, following in the steps of Johnny Kilbane, prior to the time Kilbane captured the featherweight title from Abe Attel? A letter from Jimmie Dunn, dated Los Angeles says that Simms has had five fights. He lost a close decision to Alberto Lovell, beat Tom Beaupre, knocked out Phil Brubaker in 28 seconds and while he only received a draw with Sonny Boy Walker, Dunn claims Simms should have had the award. He later defeated Jack Roper and has been rematched with Walker. It will be recalled that Kilbane had to beat Joe Rivers twice before he got a chance at Attel. Dettman, who boxed here, had to fight Bobby Yannes, Mexican, twice on the coast before he was accepted, according to Dunn. He won a decision the first time but won by a technical knockout in the fourth round the second time they fought, Dunn writes. He has been matched for a battle at Long Beach, September 29. His opponent is Swede Burgline, who knocked out Paul Pirrone in California. Mickey Duris, who also fought here boxed at Hollywood, a few nights ago but the result is not yet known here.

Baron Gottfried Von Cramm and Heiner Henkel proved yesterday their victory over Don Budge and Gene Mako for the United States doubles championship was no fluke. The German team crushed the United States combination, 9-7, 2-6, 7-5, 7-5, in the feature match of an international tennis series at Chicago.

Joseph Alexander, present councilman, who was renominated on the Republican ticket last night, is a former baseball player and also manager Emmett Rocco, the heavyweight boxer from Ellwood City. Frankie Ross, who apparently won a Democratic nomination for the same office, was a boxer, manager of boxers and is a well known baseball umpire.

The winner of the Ted Yarosz-Billy Conn second fight at Pittsburgh will be recognized as the leading contender in Pennsylvania for the middleweight championship now owned by Freddie Steele, according to Dr. W. D. McClelland. In their first meeting Conn received a questionable decision over Yarosz in 15 rounds.

A team of track and field stars from the United States made a clean sweep of the events in which they competed against Danish athletes at Copenhagen yesterday. . . Francis Sharp of Glassport and Johnny Wargo of Pittsburgh, will meet in one of the amateur bouts at the Glassport Athletic club, Glassport, Thursday night.

Greyhound, the "grey ghost" of racing at Indianapolis yesterday, clipped almost 10 seconds off the world's trotting record for the mile and a half, but a high wind kept him from cracking the mile mark. With Sep Palin driving, Greyhound made a turn and a half around the oval in 3.02½. The old record was 3:12¼ set by Rosalind of Syracuse, N. Y.

Vesta Hanover won the 2-year-old trot in 2:10, Robert Hanover captured the 3-year-old pace in 2:06, and Hanover the Great won the 2:20 trot at the Reading fair yesterday. . . . Don Meade's plea that he be allowed to ride again was not granted yesterday by the state racing commission of Florida. He was set down for 18 months for betting on horses other than those he rode.

Wilson May Be Pilot Of Reds

"Gabby" Hartnett, Fiery Cubs Catcher, Is Being Considered

(International News Service)

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 15.—They're tipping Jimmy Wilson as the head man for the job of managing the Cincinnati Reds next year, now that Charley Dressen is out, and informed circles believe the Philadelphia Phil manager has the inside track on General Manager Warren C. Giles list.

Wilson's contract with the Phillies expires this year and word has been out for sometime, it was understood here, that Jimmy will either come to the Reds as pilot or go to the Giants in a trade as a player-coach.

Others on the list of eight which Giles is considering were said to be Casey Stengel, former Brooklyn pilot; Charley "Gabby" Hartnett, fiery Chicago Cubs catcher; Frank O'Doul, field general of the San Francisco Seals and former National League batting champ, and Rabbit Maranville, who led the Montreal Royals to second place in the International League this year.

Hartnett is known to have managerial aspirations and probably would come here if shown enough of the long green. Giles said following Dressen's release Monday he "had plenty of money to hire a new manager."

However, Giles insists, nothing will be done about a new leader for the Reds until after the world series. Meanwhile Bobby Wallace, chief scout, has charge.

Giants Gain As Cubs Lose Twice

Hubbell Wins 19th In Split With Pirates — Bees Topple Cubs, 9-0, 4-2

INDIANS DROP 8TH STRAIGHT TO YANKS

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The sands in the hour glass are fast running out on the Cubs who today face a terrific handicap in their effort to shut off the Giants from another National League pennant.

The Giants have 22 games left to play; the Cubs have only 19. The Cubs have already lost four games more than the Giants which means that the Giants will have to lose four more games than the Cubs between now and the end of the season to give the Cubs a tie. It can be done, of course, but the odds are all against the Cubs, for the Giants know they have only to win when the Cubs do to assure themselves of a part in a nickel world series in New York.

The Cubs missed another opportunity to pick up ground yesterday but instead they lost ground by dropping a pair to the Bees, 9-0 and 4-2, while the Giants were dividing with the Pirates, 12-2, 6-2.

Carl Hubbell rang up his 19th victory against the Pirates and Ott hit his 31st homer, but Blanton outpitched Smith in the nightcap.

The Dodgers took two from the Reds, 4-2 and 11-2.

The Cards had to travel 14 heats to beat the Phils, 9-8 in a wild slugging match in which the Cards came from behind three times. The Cards won the second game, stopped by darkness in the fifth, 1 to 0, giving Lon Warneke his 18th victory.

The Indians have yet to win a game this year in the House that Babe Ruth Built. They dropped their eighth straight to the Yanks here yesterday, 17 to 5, and the Browns fell on Connie Mack's hopefuls for 16 hits and an easy 11-4 decision. The Tigers knocked off the Senators, 11-6.

Detroit, Cleveland Win Championships

Starting for the Russos will be Naples, V. Bullano, T. Morella, J. Bullano, A. Morella, Russo, Nuzzo, Nigro, DiMuccio. The Hoods starters: Jenkins, Wehr, Hook, Theopolis, O'Neil, Robinson, Newell, Blair, Potter.

Shenango Drills For Evans City

East New Castle Eleven Opens Home Season On Friday Afternoon

GAME WILL START AT THREE O'CLOCK

In the East New Castle district, just off the Ellwood City highway, a squad of energetic gridiron warriors Shenango Township high school representatives—are training diligently in preparation for Friday afternoon when they open their home season against Evans City. The game is carded for 3 o'clock.

The Shenango lads started the season last Saturday, battling one of the toughest Class B opponents in the district, Glassport. The Coach Nocera team went down in defeat but showed signs of developing into a smooth outfit before the close of the campaign.

During the past two days, the East New Castle gridders have gone through two stiff workouts. In all probabilities, the Shenango lineup will be something like this: Peluso or Tratz, left end, Currie, left tackle, St. Johns, Martins or Kline, left guard, Jack Thomas, center, Ernie Tanner, right guard, Druschel, right tackle, Pitzer, right end, Latham or Grinzovich, right half, Sam Mooney or Francis Donley, right half, Carl Kirkwood, fullback and Pallerino, quarterback. Collingwood was hurt in last week's battle and will not see action.

Last year, Evans City eked out a 6-0 victory over the Shenango eleven. The East New Castle warriors will trot on the field bent on avenging the defeat. No doubt, a large gallery will be present for the inaugural of the grid season at Shenango. The game will start promptly at 3 o'clock.

Beaver Falls High Player Ineligible

W. P. I. A. L. Declares Freddie Marshall, Star Guard, Can't Play

Beaver Falls high school's hopes for an undefeated season and the Class AA title dropped considerably when the W. P. I. A. L. moguls declared that Freddie Marshall, co-captain and star guard, is ineligible.

It was discovered by authorities of Beaver Falls that Marshall had reached the ineligibility age in August. New Castle battles the Orange and Black clad gridders at Beaver Falls, Friday evening, October 1.

William J. Jones of Ellwood City and Abigail J. Kirk of Pittsburgh have applied for a marriage license at Pittsburgh, as have Mike Forataro of New Castle and Rebecca Teolis of Swissvale.

In case of death or resignation of both the President and the Vice President of the United States, the Secretary of State stands next in order to the presidency.

Still, if you are given a mandate to do as you darned please, it probably includes a third term if that pleases you.

Practice Shoots Are Now Underway

New Castle Rifle Club Has Fine Turnout At Cathedral Range

New Castle Rifle club had a fine turnout at the Cathedral range on Monday night for the opening of the practice season. Behind the high guns this year there will probably be some new faces; considerable help is expected from Finley, Waddington, R. Moore, Dean, H. Allen, Dr. Hockenberry and others. Shooters or non-shooters are welcome to participate in these shoots every Monday and Friday at the Cathedral.

A medal will be presented to the high average man or lady at the conclusion of the next two month's practice sessions.

Results of the Monday night session follow:

H. Allen, 188; Reynolds, 182; D. Pugh ,192; H. Ferver, 178; H. McCormick 164; VanHorn 168; Spears, 160; Lutes 160; Hill 182; Dean, 189; Ruby Moore 192; Finley 193, and Houck, 187.

Greyhound Groomed For Track Record

(International News Service)

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 15.—Greyhound, E. J. Baker's 5-year-old trotter, was being groomed today for an attempt to set a new world's record over the mile route.

Following the record-smashing performance of the horse at one and one-half miles here yesterday, it was announced that Greyhound would try to set a new mile mark on Saturday, if the weather is favorable.

Although covering the distance on a poor track, Greyhound ran the mile and one-half in 3:02½ in a special time race, cracking the record of 3:12 1-4 set recently by Rosalind, winner of the 1936 Hambletonian.

And yet, the hickiest town doesn't seem narrow-minded and intolerant if you behave yourself.

Market Recovers After Bad Start

Market Displays Nervous Undertone; U. S. Steel Opens Up Strong

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The stock market dropped 1 to more than 2 points at the start today, but met support immediately and recovered a good portion of initial set-backs.

The market displayed a nervous undertone, despite the moderate recovery from opening softness.

U. S. Steel opened 2½ points, and gained back a point but could get no further. Bethlehem recovered half of a more than 2-point drop.

Fluctuations in most pivotal groups, including motors, oils, rails and coppers, were somewhat similar. Chrysler dropped more than 2 points before meeting support and then recovered about half of its loss. Losses in the carrier division, which had run to well over a point, were largely wiped out. Chesapeake & Ohio got above its previous close.

Western Union continued under pressure, slumping 3 points to another new 1937 low in response to the deferring of common dividends by directors.

Report Some Facts About Ellwood City

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 15.—At their dinner meeting held last evening in the Baptist church rooms the Business and Professional Women's Club had the initial program in the development of their theme for the ensuing year, "Our Town's Business". This program, ably handled by Catherine Charles, brought Facts About Cur People and How They Make a Living. Mrs. Charles stated that according to the latest census figures there are 12,323 people living in our town. Of these 3,433 are men, 3062 are women, 5,828 are children. Out of the total population there are 10,019 white American-born, 2,168 foreign-born who came mostly from Italy, Austria, Hungary, Roumania, Germany, and 134 negroes.

All of these people need shelter, food, clothing, medical care, education, and recreation. They must have money with which to buy these things. To get money they must have wages or some kind of income. In other words, they must be able to make a living. In this connection we find that of the 12,323 people in our town, more than 6,000 have jobs. There are all sorts of jobs. In general our workers are divided as follows:

Industries employ 5,098; retail stores, 574; boro, 40; schools, 121; library, 7; professions, 53; hospital, 30; Telephone Co., 18; Gas Co., 27; Water Co., 17; insurance agencies, 41; beauty parlors, 14; barber shops, 28; dry cleaners, 18; real estate agencies, 4.

At present there are 37 cases on direct relief in Ellwood City.

In 1931 Ellwood City ranked 53rd in the state in the number of wage earners, and 33rd in wages paid, which shows that the average wage in Ellwood City is high in comparison to that in other towns.

A short business meeting was in charge of Miss Iva Jackson, president. Reports were heard from the educational committee chairman, Mrs. Edith Barnhart; the finance committee chairman, Mrs. Laura Herge.

A vote was taken on the time for future meetings and it was decided that dinner meetings will be in the basement of the Baptist church, on the first Tuesday of each month, and social meetings will be held the third Tuesday of each month, in the social room at the Baptist church.

Announcement was made of the Industrial Dinner sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, to be given Monday, September 27 at 6:15 p. m. at the Ellwood Country Club. Guest speaker at this meeting to be John H. VanDeventer, editor of Iron Age magazine. As many members as possible were urged to attend this dinner.

Register Tonight For Night School

Reminder To Those Interested In Coming Sessions Of Night School

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 15—A little reminder for those interested that tonight is the night to register for those courses in night school. The time is from 7:00 to 9:00. The place is the Lincoln high school building.

The courses fill a felt need in four distinct fields, namely commercial, recreational, vocational and avocational. In the commercial field, shorthand, typewriting, bookkeeping and business English are offered. In the avocational field courses will be given in sewing and cabinet making. Those interested in learning the art of mechanical drawing from the vocational side will be taken care of and for those interested in recration, gymnasium will be offered.

When thinking about night school these things should be remembered. It is free. The deposit of $2.50 is returned to those attending 75 per cent of their classes. It meets on Monday and Thursday nights for thirty weeks. The teachers are capable and sincere in their effort to present their subject. Men working three turns will be given credit for their attendance. It fills a felt need in the community. It offers an opportunity for those wishing a high school diploma to earn one. It enables one to retain and improve the skills which might be lost through misuse. It offers an incentive to further study. It needs the cooperation of the adult population of Ellwood City and stands ready and willing to assist individuals or groups in every way possible.

Flower Show Is Grand Success

Women's Club And Garden Club Combines For First Flower Display

MANY ENTRIES ARE EXHIBITED

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 15.—Amateur gardeners whose floral plots range from "pocket handkerchief" size to good sized gardens, had an opportunity to display their choice floral specimens at the Ellwood City Country club on Tuesday afternoon when the Women's club and Garden club united for a combined meeting and flower show.

This was the premiere flower display of the club and was an outstanding success from every angle. One room of the club was converted into a veritable flower garden, the fragrant odors of the spectacular and colorful displays permeating the building. The many entries were cleverly banked on a series of tables and the guests marvelled at the wonderful display and unique arrangements which stood out prominently, connoting hours of hard work and patience in arranging the displays.

After the displays had been viewed and admired by the members and guests of the two organizations, numbering about 100, they found their places at the long tables where a most delectable luncheon was served under club supervision. Further carrying out the flower note the place cards and favors were suggestive of garden flowers. Very effectively arranged bowls of petunias added to the beauty of the setting.

Mrs. S. D. Pearson of New Castle, and a state conservation officer, was the judge of the exhibits and guest speaker of the program. As the "self termed" Godmother of the Garden club, she heartily praised the organization for the noteworthy progress they have achieved in their year of organized work.

"Improve everything or else your efforts will be in vain," Mrs. Pearson said, and suggested that next year fruits and vegetables be included in the show. In her explanation of the judging she emphasized the necessity for unusualness, distinctiveness, color scheme, scale and proper containers in order to have prize winning exhibits.

Blue ribbons were awarded for first prize; red ribbons for second prize, and white ribbons for third prize.

Those awarded prizes were:

Miniature arrangement, Mrs. George Nicklas, first; breakfast room arrangements, Mrs. Joseph Bowater, first; Mrs. George Nicklas, second, and Mrs. William Kegel, third; informal dining table arrangements, Mrs. George B. Wilson, first, and Mrs. William Kegel, second; arrangement in pairs, Mrs. Walter Baisch, first; all white arrangements, Mrs. Frank Krause, first; Mrs. Robert Curry, second and Mrs. Fred Jackson, third; arrangements in tones of yellow, Mrs. Frank Krause, first; Mrs. Robert Curry, second and Mrs. George Wilson, third; arrangements in antique containers, Mrs. Robert Curry, first and second; arrangements in pitchers, Mrs. Frank Krause, first; Mrs. Robert Curry, second, and Mrs. Frank Krause, second; arrangements in pottery containers, Mrs. Walter Baisch, first; Mrs. Moss Lauderbaugh, second, and Mrs. Paul McElroy, third; arrangements in glass containers, Mrs. Walter Baisch, first; Mrs. Russel Schill, second; Mrs. Edward Wollman, third; arrangements in metal containers, Mrs. William Kegel, first, and Mrs. Frank Krause, second; arrangements in containers not listed, Mrs. Walter Jackson, first; Mrs. Moss Lauderbach, second; Mrs. Fred Jackson, third; color harmony, Mrs. Loren Springer, first; artistic arrangement, Mrs. Frank Krause

The exhibit that was perhaps the most outstanding and most admired was an arrangement of all white gladioli in an antique brass container and was the unusual display of Mrs. Frank Krause, president of the Garden club. Mrs. Krause introduced the speaker of the afternoon.

In the evening from 7 until 9 o'clock the display was open to the public and was attended by many prominent flower enthusiasts.

Year books were distributed to the members at this time with the programs and hostesses listed for the club year.

A very much enjoyed and appreciated feature of the program was two beautiful solos, "Clouds" and "Do You Know My Garden?" by Mrs. Charles French, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Relph.

During the luncheon a fall and winter fashion display of formal, sports and daytime gowns and frocks was directed by a popular local stylist.

Mrs. Catherine Charles, local librarian, with her usual thoughtfulness and opportunism, had a display of horticulture and books dealing with gardens that may be obtained at the public library, on display in the club lobby.

A brief business session was conducted by the president, Mrs. John Hough. Mrs. Robert Barlow of the hospital committee, announced that all civic organizations would be requested to participate in a donation week of canned fruits, vegetables, jellies and preserves for the hospital, possibly during the first week of October.

A full measure of success for the marked success of the affair is due the following committee: Mrs. J. P. Ketterer, Mrs. L. E. Springer, Mrs. H. R. Smith, Mrs R. B. Curry, Mrs. Moss Lauderbaugh and Mrs. W. B. Baisch.

The October meeting will be held on the twelfth

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—CHANCE TO END A LIFETIME

Service Is To Mark Birthday Of Constitution

150th Anniversary Of Singing To Be Observed Sunday At Trinity Church

PATRIOTIC GROUPS INVITED TO ATTEND

Three weeks ago patriotic citizens of this city asked the Rev. Philip C. Pearson to arrange a special service in Trinity church next Sunday at 11 a. m. for the community, in commemoration of 150 years under the Constitution of the United States, especially the signing of it on September 17, 1787.

They remembered a similar one in 1932 commemorating the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington, and because of all that it meant wished to go to Trinity church again.

At their request, invitations went out last week through the presiding officers, to all of the officers and members with their families of the following patriotic organizations:

Grand Army of the Republic, Ladies of the G. A. R., Sons of Union Veterans, Woman's Relief Corps, Sons of Veterans Auxiliary, Daughters of Union Veterans, United Spanish-American War Veterans and their Ladies' Auxiliary, the American Legion, the American Legion Auxiliary, Gold Star Mothers, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Ladies Auxiliary of the V. F. W., Sons of the American Revolution, Daughters of the American Revolution and the Overseas Service League. It is the desire of the sponsors to include all of the patriotic societies in the city.

Last Sunday morning, Mr. Pearson made a special address to the people of Trinity church on the significence of this service, stating that it is for all people in the community who desire to express their approval of the constitutional form of government rather than the facistic or the communistic.

Learning that a committee has been formed in New Castle headed by the Hon. Fred L. Rentz for the celebration of "United States Constitution Sesquicentennial" immediately an invitation was sent to Mr. Rentz, the members of his committee and their families.
